Will Meet in Washington to Coordinate U. S.-British Planning for Talks With Reds

BY JOHN HIGHTOWER

Washington — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan will meet here in June to coordinate U. S.-British planning for a summit conference with Russia.

The White House announced the meeting will be held June 8-10. By that time the issue of whether to hold a summit conference will very likely be settled, officials believe, and most of them say privately they are sure there will be a conference.

Other subjects expected to come up in the Eisenhower-Macmillan sessions include cooperation between the United States and Britain in atomic energy developments, U. S. supplies of nuclear missiles for British bases, Middle Eastern problems, east-west trade and a review of conditions in the far East.

Commencement Address
Macmillan will deliver a commencement address June 8 at DePauw university at Greencastle, Ind.

Navy Traps Ape Which Broke Loose on Ship

Gift From British Admiral Enroute To Memphis Zoo

BY HARRY C. NASH

Norfolk, Va. — Nicky, the Barbary ape, surrendered to the United States navy today.

Nicky, destined for a Memphis zoo, escaped from his cage aboard the supply ship Antares yesterday and climbed to the top of a mast. And there he remained all night.

This morning the crew contrived a trap and baited it with bananas, carrots, lettuce and water. The trap, a cage with one side tilted by a timber, was placed on a hatch at the foot of the mast.

The crew stood back and waited. Shortly before 10 a.m., Nicky descended the mast and ambled under the tilted cage. A sailor snatched out the supporting timber.

Down came the cage. Nicky was once more in captivity. Later today he will be transferred to another cage in which he will be sent to Memphis.

Watch Kept

The 5-year-old ape spent the night under the watchful eye of a one-man "monkey watch," whose duty it was to make sure Nicky didn't jump overboard or leap to the pier at which the Antares is moored at the Norfolk naval base.

The crew last night hoisted a small heater into the rigging to keep Nicky warm. And a searchlight was focused on him to make sure he wouldn't pull any fast tricks unnoticed.

Nicky was given to the Memphis zoo by the British admiral in command at Gibraltar. The Antares brought him from Gibraltar to Norfolk.

The ape escaped yesterday as sailors tried to transfer him from his seagoing cage to the smaller one in which he will travel to Memphis.

Nicky's breed has lived on the rock fortress of Gibraltar for centuries. Actually, Nicky isn't an ape at all. He is a tail-less monkey.

Dad Tells of Throwing Two Children in River

Police are Convinced 33-Year-Old Man Telling the Truth

Wheeling, W. Va. — A 33-year-old steelworker told authorities at nearby Weelsburg last night that he had thrown his two young children into the frigid Ohio river from a bridge in Wheeling.

After several hours questioning, the Brooke county sheriff's office said it was convinced that the man, John Turner, 33, of Beech Bottom, near Weelsburg, "was telling the truth."

A search of the river was begun immediately. Wheeling city police said they found foot and hand prints in fresh snow on the sidewalk and rail of the Fort Henry bridge. They said some of the prints appeared to be those of children.

No Reason

Brooke county Deputy Sheriff Evan Rees said Turner was incoherent at first and sobbed deeply at times. He said Turner could give no reason for his action.

Rees quoted Turner as saying he and the children, Betty Marie, 7, and John Jr., 4, left their house about 10:30 last night to go to a store.

Instead, Turner said, he drove to Wheeling, about 20 miles north of Beech Bottom. Turner said he threw the children into the river, then drove back to Weelsburg, walked into the sheriff's office and told his tragic tale.

Police said Turner's wife confirmed that he had taken the children from the home.

Lt. William Finnegan of the Wheeling police said, however, Mrs. Turner was under the impression her husband was just taking the children for a ride.

Told of Plan

Finnegan quoted Mrs. Turner as saying he told her he had planned to throw the children from the bridge Wednesday night, but that there were too many people around.

2 National Labor Union Officials to Try to Merge State AFL-CIO

Will Meet With State Leaders In Milwaukee Later in Month

Milwaukee — Two national labor union officials will be in Milwaukee March 26-27 to try to work out a merger of the Wisconsin CIO and AFL which have been unable to reach a voluntary consolidation agreement.

The merger of the state organizations has long been delayed and negotiations hit a major snag earlier this year when George Hlaberman, president of the AFL charged in a meeting at Wausau that the CIO was attempting to force its will on the AFL. He said merger was a long way off. The deadline for voluntary consolidation passed after a 2-year waiting period last Dec. 5.

Plans for the merger conference were announced by Charles Schultz, president of the Wisconsin CIO. He said the meeting is expected to result in the scheduling of a joint state merger convention. The state AFL had 300,000 members. The CIO 100,000.

Both Vice Presidents

Schultz said he was notified by letter that the national AFL-CIO was sending Peter Schoemann and Karl Feller to guide the conference. Both are vice presidents of the national organization.

Feller is president of the United Brewery Workers union. Schoemann, a former Milwaukeean, is a member of the AFL-CIO executive council and president of the United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters union.

Regarded as one of labor's most influential leaders, Schoemann has helped work out agreements ending jurisdictional disputes between unions.

Since the deadline for voluntary merger passed the national union has moved in and consolidated the AFL and CIO in Michigan.

Fur Coats of Five

Women Stolen From Cloakroom During Talk

Milwaukee — The fur coats of five women, including the former Secretary of State Mrs. Glen Wise of Madison, were in the scheduling of a joint state merger convention. The state AFL had 300,000 members. The CIO 100,000.

Police said the thief entered an unattended cloakroom about 10:30 inside the main entrance of the Jewish Community center. More than 200 women were attending the meeting sponsored by the Wisconsin Federation of Republican Women.

Meade Alcorn to Head Panel at GOP Meeting

Washington — Meade Alcorn, Republican national committee chairman, heads a key-note panel opening today the 2-day conference of the National Federation of Republican Women.

About 75 state federation officers and national committee members are attending the sessions.

Rep. Simpson (R-Pa) and Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan), chairmen of the GOP congressional campaign committees, and Miss Bertha Adkins, assistant GOP national chairman, completed the panel.

Whitstable, England — Tardy Tony Braithwaite, 7, was ordered by his teacher to write "I must not be late for school" 50 times.

Tony showed up yesterday with the lines neatly done in his father's handwriting and an explanatory note: "It was my fault that Tony was late, so it is only fair that I should write the lines." Teacher Frank Newsome accepted the lines, saying, "It was the sporting thing to do."

Farm Families Honored At Conservation Dinner

Awards Presented for Outstanding Soil Improvement Practices in 1957

BY DAVID APKER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Twenty Outagamie county farm families were honored at a district soil conservation award dinner at Seymour Thursday.

The dinner was sponsored by the Appleton State bank, Seymour State bank and First National bank of Seymour. Awards were presented for outstanding conservation practices during 1957.

Honored were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ransom, Deer Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Carlson, Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. Art Moes, Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kysely, Bovina, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wussow, Black Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Rheinhold Mueller, Cicero, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenkins, Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Blohm, Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher, Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laabs, Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Zerbe, Ellington.

Others Honored
Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Manley, Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Lambie, Freedom, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hietpas, Vandenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Van Handel, Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keiffer, Oneida, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Van Der Heiden, Kaukauna, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rihm, Center, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wasserbach, Grand Chute, and Don Ferminich, Maple Creek.

Awards were presented by Vernon Geiger, district soil conservationist.

David Williams, assistant director of the University of Wisconsin Extension service, Madison, reviewed changes facing farmers.

Topics discussed by Williams included declining number of farm workers, decreasing farmer share of the food dollar, increased capital investments, boosts in farm size and increased efficiency.

Increased Efficiency
He noted that mechanization on farms has increased efficiency, although it boosted capital investment totals.

Modern machinery, better crop information and soil conservation practices have increased production in face of a declining number of farm workers, he said.

Despite technological advances, Williams said, farmers receive 39 per cent of the food dollar today, compared to 50 per cent 10 years ago.

He warned against "feeding out" practices, where the farmer receives food, stock and equipment from a firm in return for a percentage of the animal's market price.

"This may increase farm efficiency," Williams declared, "but it forces farmers to become skilled pieceworkers, rather than managers in their own right."

Cites Achievements
James Woller, Appleton, a district conservationist, discussed 1957 conservation achievements and plans for 1958.

Forty-four acres of contour plowing, 327 acres of strip cropping, 230 acres of forest improvement cutting and 30 completed farm plans highlighted 1957, Woller said.

He urged more erosion control plans in 1958.

M. F. Schweers, of the state division of the U.S. Soil Conservation service, related the history of the soil conservation agency.

Mrs. John Butler, Appleton, League of Women Voters representative, told of urban interests in conservation.

Soil Stewardship
Responsibilities of soil stewardship were discussed by the Rev. Elmer Becker, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, Black Creek.

John VerVoort, Freedom, chairman of the judging committee, discussed judging procedures used to pick the winners.

Fred Hoffman, Bear Creek, was master of ceremonies.

Moderately Faithful Plot

'Brothers Karamazov' Outstanding Film Fare

BY JINGO

"The Brothers Karamazov," playing the Rio theatre is outstanding film fare.

Fine acting, excellent photography and a plot moderately faithful to the novel add up to a production bound to be in a cademy award competition.

Top performances are turned in by Yul Brynner as Dimitri, Maria Schell as Dimitri's fate-tossed sweetheart and Lee J. Cobb as the roughish father.

Brynner's is a brilliant portrayal of the tragic hero. Constantly caught in a web of circumstances that bring him to the brink of spiritual destruction, Dimitri reflects the final triumph of the human spirit.

Miss Schell exhibits excellent acting skill, combined with a smile of unusual beauty and charm. It has national reviewers agog.

Cobb's performance ranks with the best. His task wasn't easy. The father's character includes just about every conceivable human vice and a smattering of virtues. Cobb's portrayal is excellent professional workmanship.

Jingo's Jewels: "Colt 45" probably will be the first TV western to fall before the sponsor's ax. . . Mickey Rooney will bring back the Andy Hardy series with something called "Andy Hardy Comes Home" . . . Bob Hope may do two more specs this season for NBC-TV. One on April 5 is certain. The second may come, May 3. . . Mae West and Rock Hudson will sing, "Baby, It's Cold Outside," during the telecast of the movie Oscar awards . . . One of the Andrew sisters — that middle one — will debut as a dramatic actress on an upcoming "Matinee Theater" show.

Shirley Temple will appear with Dinah Shore on Dinah's May 4 show. . . Danny Thomas is backing a new TV series about the WACS. It's called "Petticoat Major" . . . Ozzie and Harriet, mindful of son Ricky's success, will cut a record album of old favorites. . . Anna Maria Alberghetti stars in the May 1 "Climax" tale. . . Jaye P. Morgan and Satchmo Armstrong are set for an NBC-TV spec April 30.

Dennis Morgan has signed for a "Hitchcock Presents" . . . "Wide World of Sports" June 8 will tour most of the free nations of Europe. . . Jack Oakie will have a starring role in CBS-TV's "Studio One" drama March 24. It's about the mysterious Richard Rich, the academy award writer they never could find.

It's strange, too, that the "Studio One" show comes two days before this year's Oscar telecast. . . Howard Duff sings in the next "Mr. Adams and Eve" segment. . . Ann Blyth will guest with Eddie Fisher on St. Patrick's Day. . . You can watch the crowning of Mrs. Wisconsin Saturday on WTMJ-TV at 8.

Whispering Pines Names PTA Officers
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dilly have been named presidents of the Whispering Pines Parent-Teacher association this week. Also elected were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Strover, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuerst, secretaries; Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Hartzheim, treasurers, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Luebke, representatives of the city-wide PTA council.

Survival Plan for Wisconsin Outlined by State CD Leaders

Requires Extensive New Laws, Officials Told in 3-Hour Talk

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Top state and local government officials listened for three hours Thursday as a battery of experts outlined a "survival plan" for the population of Wisconsin that can be executed in the event of enemy bombing of key targets in the state.

A technical staff of the state civil defense office unveiled a civil defense mobilization plan in detail for the instruction of civilian governmental officials. The manuals covered 800 pages of type, and dealt with problems that would face governmental administrators, state and local, in the event of an enemy air strike.

Practical application of the new plan will require extensive new legislation, and, most of all, a considerable increase in public interest and response in the civil defense problem, it was said.

The object of the plan is evacuation of populations after bombing or threat of air attack. Insist on Evacuation

While the physical task of evacuating the larger cities of the state at short notice appears staggering, the experts insist upon it.

"Since adequate shelter from the blast and heat effects of large nuclear bombs is nonexistent, the only reasonable and practicable policy is evacuation of people within probable blast areas to reception areas where they will be billeted in the houses of local inhabitants or lodged in community structures which can be used for congregate care," the plan asserts.

The plan revolves around the responsibilities for evacuation, reception and care of refugees. It would be a cooperative enterprise, involving the state and the localities as equal partners. The state would have the primary responsibility for declaring the emergency and getting machinery into motion. Specialized administrative groups already are organized.

Governor to Declare

The governor would declare an emergency. It probably would bring suspension of all except the most essential public services, as well as state control over food, fuel and other essential supplies, it was explained.

Gov. Thomson Thursday announced establishment of an economic controls commission as a part of the civil defense establishment. It would rule on economic controls during such an emergency. Donald McDowell, of the state department of agriculture, was chosen as its chief.

The technicians estimated that the four probable target areas of the state have about 1,500,000 inhabitants who would have to be evacuated.

Need Auxiliary Police

It was evident from discussions that the plan is largely in the documentary stage. One official related, as an example, that a reasonably adequate reserve machinery for the evacuation task would include about 20,000 auxiliary policemen, to augment the professional police corps of the state. But only about 7,000 of each auxiliaries have been trained, it was said.

The officials repeatedly explained that the purpose of civil defense is to assure the continuation of essential governmental services in any emergency. But the 1959 legislature will be required to rewrite state laws considerably to give that "firm assurance of continuity of government," one consultant observed.

Was Breaking Up

Pallow indicated his relationship with Miss Leis was breaking up. He said he went to Miss Leis' home early yesterday morning. The couple walked down a lonely lane where Pallow said he shot her once.

He said she fell to her knees and begged: "Kill me quick." Then he fired five more bullets from the .22 revolver.

Pallow then hitchhiked to Beaver and turned himself in. He indicated he had not planned to take his own life.

Ironically, Mrs. Pallow's attorney, unaware of the shooting, appeared later in the morning at the courthouse to file divorce action.

Miss Leis lived with her father, Andrew. Her parents are separated.

Leaves $150,000 Estate to Man Who Aided Him

Chicago — An immigrant who became a wealthy fur dealer left his $150,000 estate to a former shoeshine boy who had befriended him nearly 40 years ago.

The will of Joseph Stary, 75, admitted to probate yesterday by the circuit court, ignored his widow and son, but named Lawrence J. Young, a 50-year-old Negro building contractor, as beneficiary.

The will, filed in circuit court, did not mention Stary's wife, Mrs. Josephine Stary, an inmate of the Waukegan state hospital, a mental institution, or his son, John Stary of Chicago.

The elder Stary, an immigrant from Czechoslovakia, died March 31, 1957. Young said he first met Stary in 1919 when Young was working on the south side as a bootblack.

"We became close friends," Young related. "He backed me in business. Later we worked together, invested together and we made money." For five years before his death, Stary lived at Young's home.

Green Bay One Of Four Major Enemy Targets

Bomb Blast Area Would Extend Past Brown County Lines

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Green Bay is listed among the four target areas in Wisconsin in civil defense preparations against enemy air attack.

Gen. Ralph Olson, state CD director, announced the fact Thursday at a "survival conference" of local defense workers.

He said the other most likely targets are Madison, Milwaukee - Racine - Kenosha, and Superior.

Technicians explained that under current concepts, the Green Bay bomb blast area would extend considerably beyond Green Bay and even Brown County.

Population evacuation remains a keystone of the state civil defense plan, officials hammered home in numerous speeches at the conference here.

Official maps distributed indicate evacuation from the industrialized Fox River valley would be northeastward.

Shah of Iran Gets Divorce daughter of a German woman, was educated in Europe and has many western ideas.

Pension for Queen

The shah has one daughter by his first wife, Princess Fawzia of Egypt, but women cannot succeed to Moslem thrones. The monarch divorced Fawzia in 1948 because she, too, apparently could not give him a son.

The communique put Soraya's divorce settlement at $134,000. She reportedly also will keep several million dollars worth of jewels the shah bought for her during their seven years of marriage and will get a court pension to pay her living expenses.

The handsome shah married Soraya, whose name means "star," on Feb. 12, 1951. Since 1953 she has traveled to Switzerland several times, and the couple consulted New York doctors on a 1955 visit to the United States in hopes of ending their childlessness.

Negotiations Fail

Early this year the queen left for West Germany. A court envoy visited her, reportedly with the proposal for the shah to take an additional wife. The communique made no mention of this, saying that Soraya had expressed herself ready "for any sacrifice in securing the future of the monarchy of Iran."

Another suggestion was for the shah to name his brother, Abdul Reza, or his 9-year-old nephew, Ali Patrik as crown prince. But the court advisers felt the throne, which the shah's semi-literate, ex-Cossack father gained by force, would be safer if passed from father to son.

The divorce ended what had appeared to be one of the world's happier royal marriages. The queen had been widely credited with helping the effectual young man with a fondness for sports cars and flying into a strong ruler who steered his country down a pro-western path.

Lewis said the suit is "a corporate matter" and has "no personal implication."

In Hollywood, Miss Young was not available for comment. Her press agent said she knew of no trouble in the marriage.

Shewalter said there is no personal friction between Miss Young and Lewis "as far as I know." Attorney Nathan J. Neilson, who filed the superior court action for Lewis, said it is, so far as he knows, "purely a matter of the dissolution of a business."

The Lewises were married in 1940 and have three children.

Lewis said that on May 11, 1956, he resigned as an officer and director of the corporation at the request of Miss Young and Shewalter and that afterward they increased their own salaries to twice what they had been.

He alleged that Miss Young and their partner, Robert F. Shewalter, "in combination as directors and stockholders and president and secretary-treasurer" have "exercised complete control over the corporation to the complete exclusion" of Lewis.

Unless the corporation is dissolved promptly, Lewis contended in the complaint, he will be deprived of his rights as a shareholder "due to the dishonesty, mismanagement and unfairness" of Miss Young and Shewalter.

President Eisenhower Shared a laugh today with George Meany, center, president of the AFL-CIO, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union. This occurred as the president posed with labor leaders who called on him at the White House. ate last night but its sponsor, Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said he would continue his fight for a cut in excise taxes. The package rejected last night would have affected individual income, excise and transportation taxes.

On the vote rejecting that amendment, Douglas was supported by only 11 Democrats and 2 Republicans, Sens. Potter of Michigan and Langer of North Dakota. (Sen. Wiley voted against the amendment, Sen. Proxmire for it).

Under the constitution, tax legislation must originate in the house, though it may be changed in the senate. Douglas offered his proposal as an amendment to a house-passed bill on insurance taxes.

The senate public works committee takes up today a bill to make an additional $1½ billion for highway construction this year. The bill as approved by a subcommittee yesterday would release $200 million more immediately and provide an extra $800 million after July 1 for the superhighway system, and add $400 million to the money allocated for other federally aided roads.

Ike Gets Report

The AFL-CIO withheld releasing its current economic analysis, which was sent to the White House so Eisenhower could study it first.

It was reported to contend that current economic data at hand is sufficient to show, without waiting for further data, that the economy is still going downward, warranting more

Fist Fights Break Out in Parliament

Rome — Fascist and communist deputies turned Italy's chamber of deputies into a battleground today with a riotous free-for-all fist fight that left seven persons injured.

Communist - allied socialists and some center deputies also joined in the battle, which erupted as the chamber considered a bill to give legal recognition to the Italian partisans who fought against fascism during World War II. Such recognition would allow the partisans to claim pensions and other veterans' benefits paid the army.

Bloody noses, black eyes and swollen fingers demonstrated the violence of the fight, one of the worst in years in the turbulent Italian parliament.

Four deputies and three chamber employees who tried to break up the fight were treated at the parliament infirmary.

Fist Fights Break Out in Parliament

Rome — Fascist and communist deputies turned Italy's chamber of deputies into a battleground today with a riotous free-for-all fist fight that left seven persons injured.

Communist - allied socialists and some center deputies also joined in the battle, which erupted as the chamber considered a bill to give legal recognition to the Italian partisans who fought against fascism during World War II. Such recognition would allow the partisans to claim pensions and other veterans' benefits paid the army.

Bloody noses, black eyes and swollen fingers demonstrated the violence of the fight, one of the worst in years in the turbulent Italian parliament.

Four deputies and three chamber employees who tried to break up the fight were treated at the parliament infirmary.

Nose Count of Vehicles

Memorial Drive Bridge Biggest Traffic Carrier, Survey Shows

Memorial drive bridge carries more traffic than any other bridge or section of street in Appleton.

A traffic count taken last May and June by the state highway commission shows the average weekday load for a 24-hour period hits 17,140 vehicles.

Approaches to the bridge are the next largest carriers.

A 24-hour state count immediately north of W. Seymour street on Memorial drive found a total of 16,030 vehicles, indicating the River drive and River view place residential areas furnish about 110 travelers a day.

A count for the same period on the north approach between W. Prospect avenue and W. Third street totaled 12,566, indicating 4,574 vehicles used W. Prospect to and from the bridge.

The count south of W. Seymour was 14,265. North of the south limits it was 13,784.

W. College

The count between W. Fifth and W. Sixth streets was 13,147. It was 9,662 between Badger avenue and W. Seventh and 9,958 between W. Lawrence street and W. College avenue.

The second largest traffic carrier — W. College between Memorial drive and State street — produced a flow of 14,677 vehicles.

Other large carriers:

Highway 47 west of Memorial drive, 12,016.

S. Oneida street bridge, 12,072.

S. Oneida between W. Lawrence and E. Kimball street, 11,517.

N. Richmond street between

W. Wisconsin avenue and W. Kamps street, 10,123.

W. Wisconsin avenue between N. Richmond and N. Erb street, 12,022.

W. Wisconsin between N. Appleton street and N. Oneida, 11,835.

E. Wisconsin between N. Oneida and N. Morrison street, 11,479.

E. Wisconsin between N. Lawe street and N. Meade street, 10,424.

W. Wisconsin between N. Locust street and N. Richmond, 10,390.

The traffic counts also show about 5,754 vehicles on N. Appleton street north of W. Washington.

Atlantic street, at crossings just off N. Oneida and N. Appleton, shows an average in excess of 2,200 vehicles.

Badger avenue, one of the few angle streets in the city and a state trunk, carried about 6,774 at Memorial drive, about 4,676 at W. College, about 4,300 at W. Packard street and about 3,376 south of W. Wisconsin.

E. Calumet street carries about 2,136 at S. Oneida, about 1,405 at S. Carpenter street and about 964 just east of E. John street (County Trunk KK).

College avenue builds up its volume from about 5,045 west of the corporate limits to about 6,068 at Summit street and Badger avenue, about 9,296 at N. Richmond and to 14,677 between Memorial drive and State street.

Downtown

East College avenue starts with small totals east of Meade street, averaging under 1,900. The total jumps to 8,656 in the block between Meade street and Lawe street where E. John street bridge traffic comes and goes and to 9,082 between Lawe street and Union street, the turnoff block for the S. Lawe street bridge.

In the heart of the downtown district — between Morrison and Oneida streets and between Oneida and Appleton streets — the total shows the effect of the 1-way, east-bound-only Washington street, a block north. At Morrison street, the total goes to 8,984 and at Oneida street it slumps to 7,647.

While Highway 47 travelers numbered 12,016 west of Memorial drive, few are shown using W. Foster street, with 3,210 reported on W. Foster east of Memorial drive and 2,864 west of S. Oneida.

There were 3,425 vehicles counted on E. Fremont street between S. Oneida and S. Monroe street.

Traffic on the E. John bridge totaled 6,574, with a greater number reported at the north approach — S. Meade to S. Rankin street. Only 5,857 vehicles were counted northeast of S. Walter avenue, the south approach. Traffic on County Trunk KK, outside the city, hit 982 vehicles.

Largest concentration of traffic on Mason street is between W. Wisconsin and W. Summer street — 4,584. At the north limits, the total falls to 850 and between W. Prospect and W. Second it equals 2,592.

The S. Lawe street bridge carried 4,169 vehicles, fewer than the 5,442 between E. College and E. Washington.

N. Meade hits its big total, 8,157, between E. College and E. Alton street. Next biggest is between E. Wisconsin and E. Randall, 6,106. North of E. Pershing its total is 2,544, between E. College and E. Washington 1,981, south of E. Spring 2,734 and between E. Wisconsin and E. Summer 1,891.

Oneida street carries between 8,123 and 6,080 from Atlantic street south to Soldiers Square. It hits a major high between W. Foster and E. Fremont streets of 9,372. South of the city limits the total is 4,808. Just north of Wisconsin avenue it's 5,571.

W. Packard

Peak of W. Packard travel is at N. Richmond — 4,668. W. Prospect's peak is just west of Memorial drive — 6,248. Another major section for W. Prospect is at S. Mason — 5,738. N. Richmond carries more than 8,000 from W. College to north of W. Wisconsin and still has 5,710 at Highway 41.

W. Seymour street averages slightly over 2,000. W. Spencer street's high is 2,233 at Badger avenue. W. Washington's traffic is concentrated between N. Appleton and N. Oneida, 6,002. At either end of the 1-way carrier, the total is in excess of 4,000, but at the far east end, where there is 2-way status, the total slips to less than 1,400.

S. Walter avenue carries 6,108 between E. John and E. Candee street, an indication of traffic to come when the high level bridge is complete.

Board members have received City Clerk Elden Broehm's bids tabulation. The board postponed a decision until Mayor Robert L. Roemer, who was in Madison, can attend the board meeting.

Apparent low bidder is North American Life and Casualty company, whose agent is Arthur Coffey, of Freedom and Appleton. The company agreed to furnish $2,000 group life term insurance for 268 city employees for $2.20 per employee per month.

Quoting $2.30 a month are Occidental Life Insurance, Robert Fritz, Edward Schroeder and Ralph McGowan, representatives; American United Life Insurance company, Charles S. Mann, Medina, agent; Prudential Insurance Company of America, Joseph Moriarty and Don F. Jabas, agents; and Prudential Insurance company, Roger LaBerge, representative.

The cost per employee per month, it was said, will depend on which and how many of the employees agree to buy the plan. Whether the winner is a stock or mutual company also may have some effect on the bid price. The winning bidder will be given a certain time within which he must sign up 75 per cent of all employees or the plan fails through.

The city will share the month-to-month premium costs, but no decision has been made on the split.

Planning Unit Asks Buchanan To Join Group

Representatives Will Address Townspeople At April 1 Meeting

Buchanan — The town board of Buchanan Thursday night granted Charles Wood, chairman of the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission, and Clarence Hammond, regional director, permission to speak at the annual town meeting about the advantages of joining the commission.

The two men asked the board for permission to speak to the people of the township at the April 1 meeting to explain the regional planning program, its aims, objectives and long range benefits. They also will explain how the costs of the commission are distributed among various municipalities.

In other action the board decided to call in representatives of the roadbinder company to discuss purchases and prices for the coming year. A discussion on roads needing the roadbinder will take place at the annual meeting.

The board discussed licensing dogs in the township and unofficially agreed dog owners who failed to purchase licenses should not be permitted to file dog damage claims against the county.

Gangster Nations

The uncivilized and gangster-like tactics of the North Korea-Red China communists in dealing with the other nations of the world will never cease to amaze civilized people everywhere.

The communist bandits who hijacked a South Korean airliner and forced two American pilots to take it to an airport in North Korea obviously did so with the knowledge and cooperation of the North Korean government. The vicious act of the North Korean military in shooting down an American Sabre Jet somewhere near the line of the buffer zone, is an inexcusable act of violence, wholly unnecessary under any view. It shows that the Reds welcome any technical violation on the part of Americans which will excuse shooting on their part.

In the meantime Americans must call the Reds' attention again and again to violations of the armistice terms by their leaders. The American practice of letting them know that their violations are known but still do not draw American fire probably gives them an inferiority complex which results in their retaliatory violence. They made some effort to correct their hijacking of the plane, but there are some things which apparently are too far gone for correction, but which are by no means forgiven by the West.

The Committee of One Million, against the admission of Communist China to the United Nations, is one organization that has not forgotten the atrocities of the Reds and does not propose to let anyone else forget them either. Right now they are calling on the United States for action in obtaining an accounting from the Chinese Reds of the fate of 450 Americans captured during the Korean war. A total of 2,720 members of the UN command were lost to the Chinese Reds in that struggle. Included were the 450 Americans mentioned.

The Committee of One Million recognizes that most of the prisoners probably died while prisoners of the Reds, but it is insisting nevertheless that the Reds make known their several fates. The most ordinary feeling of decency in a civilized nation would dictate such a report. In its most recent statement on this matter the committee says:

These young Americans who fought so valiantly in Korea in our first major battle against communist aggression seem to have been forgotten by those few Americans who urge concessions to the regime which captured them. It is difficult to comprehend the reasoning which prompts some Americans to offer Communist China what it wants most—diplomatic recognition, trade and international acceptance and respectability through a seat in the UN—and not ask anything in return. How long can these people follow the mentality of the ostrich!

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, Democrat of Milwaukee who is a ranking member of the House Foreign Affairs committee, last year secured passage of a resolution which called on the president to press for an accounting of the missing American servicemen, and to make their release a primary objective of U. S. foreign policy. Zablocki says the outlook for such an accounting is not good, but he says the efforts must continue and he has been assured that this will be done. This, he says, is the least we can do for these gallant men, and there are few Americans who will disagree with that statement.

The American Red-Cross

As the American Red Cross asks for financial contributions during the month of March it may prompt many of us to ask, what does the Red Cross do for me?

At times there seems to exist a fair amount of confusion as to the functions of this typically American service society. This may well result from the varied activities sponsored by the Red Cross.

The Red Cross offers two distinct and separate types of service.

The first has to do with its charter obligation under an Act of Congress. That is to serve as the intermediary between the serviceman and his family at home. Congress said when the American Red Cross was established many years ago that it would be the official agency to act as this go-between. Later the responsibility was extended to veterans.

This is the kind of service we hear little about. The cases are by their nature confidential. Many servicemen probably never heard of them because they were never in need of Red Cross services. But the service is there nonetheless when it is needed.

Other Red Cross services in a community like the Fox Cities are known as permissive services. That is, the local chapter determines whether there is a need for them in its community, and then establishes the service where there is a need.

Such services include county blood programs (Winnebago county has one; in Outagamie county the program is provided by the Community Blood Center); instruction programs in first aid, water safety and home care of the sick; emergency first aid depots; and the provision of skeleton organizations to operate in a disaster.

Again many of these accomplishments are not evident until a need for the services arises. But when a Boy Scout resuscitates a drowning person using his first aid training, when a ski patrol rescues an injured skier, when a child gets blood for a heart operation, or a community like Cameron, La., is hit by a hurricane, the Red Cross is there and many are thankful for it.

Red Cross in actuality is people helping people. It is an organization through which you can help a neighbor who needs help. Many persons in this community spend countless hours doing volunteer work through the Red Cross. The rest of us are asked to help once a year by contributing money to keep these services available. And the community is better prepared to face everyday emergencies because the Red Cross is here.

Which Side of the Fence?

One of the so-called grand old American traditions is for the poverty-stricken working man of one generation to become the rich capitalist of the next. A recent union incident illustrates that the trend is still in style, admitted or not.

Organizers of various AFL-CIO unions decided last year to form a union of their own, called the Field Representatives Federation. But the AFL-CIO refused to recognize the group which has now taken its case to the National Labor Relations board.

In the meantime the AFL-CIO fired, retired or transferred rather suddenly about 100 members of the some 200 in the federation. Now a picket marches back and forth in front of the brand new AFL-CIO headquarters in Washington protesting the action. And officials of the AFL-CIO, who have long denounced crossers of picket lines as scabs and scum, now scurry red-faced by the picket themselves.

It all gets a little complicated. One thing is obvious; big labor is big business which ought to make both sides more tolerant of the other point of view; but so far it doesn't always work that way.

Extension Center Can't Fill Teacher Needs

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As members of the school board of Maple Grove School Dist. No. 5, towns of Freedom and Osborn, we would like to express our opinions as to the moving of the Menasha University Extension center to our County Teachers college at Kaukauna.

There is a University Extension center in Green Bay. If the one from Menasha is moved to Kaukauna the two centers will be about 20 miles or so apart. We think that those two locations would be too close together and the extension students from Winnebago county would be inconvenienced greatly by driving so far. Appleton would be more centrally located for such a center.

Another question to consider is that two years of training at the Extension center will not entitle teachers to teach in elementary schools because the course of study is not designed for that purpose. Students would have to go on further to college to get their certificates or degrees.

If we have to hire teachers with degrees to teach in our country schools the salaries will be considerably higher than for our county college graduates. We believe that teachers with degrees cater to city teaching positions.

If the Extension center is moved to Kaukauna from Menasha the college would no doubt have to be remodeled to meet their needs. This would mean a large amount of money to be spent. The county would have to pay this cost. This would mean increased taxes for Outagamie county.

Students from the Extension center are taking the 2-year course at Kaukauna Teachers college to help supply the needs for elementary schools.

Out of the 150 teachers in the county, 112 are county college graduates. This figure does not include county graduates in city schools.

If our young people have to go to Oshkosh for training to be teachers in our rural schools their educational expenses will be much greater and they will be inconvenienced by being farther away from their homes. We need all the teachers that are being trained at our Outagamie County Teachers college. These graduates are of the highest character and ability. This we have found out in our contacts with graduates from the county college, as we have had them in our employ in past years as well as the one we have now. We think other district boards are of the same opinion.

Senator Who Condemned Joe Holds Up Internal Security Report

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

(Copyright, 1958)

Who got hurt by the unpublished annual report of the senate internal security subcommittee?

Someone must have, for the report long ago written and made ready has not yet been made available to the public.

Many volumes of the hearings have appeared, but not the annual report to congress. And without an annual report, how can congress justify voting the committee funds? What has the committee done during the past year to justify an additional appropriation?

One of the matters which the report as originally written contains, according to my information, is a section on the suicide of Dr. Herbert Norman, the Canadian ambassador to Egypt. An American congressional committee has no function examining a Canadian ambassador, but it so happens that many of Norman's activities concerned Americans and took place in association with Americans. He was on the most intimate terms with many American diplomats, particularly those who have had left wing associations.

Happened Year Ago

Norman committed suicide last April in Cairo and an attempt was made by Canada's then Secretary for External Affairs, Lester Pearson, to blame that suicide upon the senate internal security subcommittee. This gave some senators the jitters and embarrassed the state department no end. The information at the time, however, was that a Canadian commission was about to be appointed to investigate Norman's conduct.

A Canadian commission is a much tougher body than an American congressional committee because the Fifth Amendment is unavailable to those who wish to squirm out of telling the truth. Also hearings are rarely in public and therefore the witness cannot depend upon friendly reporters to protect him from abuse, if any.

Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, a Republican member of the senate internal security subcommittee, has since the Norman episode, set himself up as censor of the committee's conduct with the result that the committee became inactive, its counsel, Robert Morris, resigned and is now running for senator in New Jersey, and the annual report has been delayed. The delay is attributed to Sen. Arthur Watkins' refusal to sign the report. The normal procedure for a senator, when he objects to the report of a committee of which he is a member, is to prepare a dissenting report which is published simultaneously with the majority report, but when a committee has a rule that a unanimous vote is necessary for a report, one member can delay its publication, or force changes to be made in it, to get it out at all.

Held Trial Over Joe

It may be recalled that Sen. Watkins presided over the committee which held trial over Sen. Joe McCarthy and which resulted in the condemnation of Sen. McCarthy. When this committee was appointed I asked Joe McCarthy what he thought of Sen. Watkins. He told me that Sen. Watkins was his friend and that he expected that nothing serious would come of the hearings. He entered upon them in that spirit, but soon discovered that he had again been outfoxed by the White House crowd who had set up the various devices to oppose McCarthy. Apparently Sen. Watkins is doing the same kind of a job of the senate internal security subcommittee.

This committee has been in existence seven years. Last year, it spent more than $250,000 of the public's money, although part of that went to political appointees who do no effective work of investigation. This is a habit among congressional committees that needs correction and is one reason why many investigations once started, are not completed. The committees ran out of funds taking care of political appointees.

Also, in the year 1958, there is no political profit in the work of this committee. The administration does not favor disclosures of errors of judgment, say in the handling of the Hungarian revolt; the Democrats do not want historic disclosures, say of the relations between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and communist leader, Earl Browder — disclosures which cannot longer be suppressed because the truth discloses itself in other ways. The Canadians object to disclosures which involve any of their political leaders or their businessmen who operate cartels, whether for newspaper or for whiskey, in the United States. Members of congress, in an election year, dislike controversial reports which might arouse unfavorable public opinion. They like everything to be sweet and safe.

So all in all, this committee has found itself to be politically unpopuliar and lacking in advantage to its members who are, after all, only politicians.

Fire Damages Ferguson Home

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of March 15, 1879.

A residence in the Fourth Ward, occupied by Mr. H. L. Ferguson and family, took fire Friday morning between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock.

Mr. Ferguson is in the employ of the Appleton Manufacturing Co. as night watch. Having been relieved from duty he went home and before retiring made a fire in the sitting room stove to make the room a little more comfortable for the arrival of his wife, who had been away on a visit. He fell into a doze and suddenly awoke strangling from suffocation by smoke.

Jumping out of bed, he grabbed his boots and went to the door to give the alarm and then proceeded to discover the whereabouts of the fire. The fire was found to be emerging from a back room upstairs. It was found that nothing could be saved from the second floor, so he at once, with assistance, moved everything he could to the downstairs to a place of safety.

Loss on the building and goods was estimated at about $1,000.

Friday, March 10, 1933

Organization of a 4-H club was to be discussed at a meeting of farm boys and girls at the Pine Grove rural school, town of Oneida.

Harold Finger, president of Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, was named secretary of the regional conference of the Junior chamber to be held March 11 and 12 in Chicago. Finger also was state secretary of the chamber.

The previous afternoon's high wind moved a considerable amount of Waupaca county sand into Outagamie county. The entire western section of the county had a sandy colored hue from the dust that was picked up and swept along with the wind. In some places where there were sandy fields alongside the roads the dust was so heavy auto drivers could see only short distances.

Miss Thillie Jahn was elected president of the Women's Missionary society of First Reformed church at a meeting at the home of Mrs. George Leembuis. Miss Evelyn Brandt was chosen vice president, Mrs. E. F. Franz, secretary, and Mrs. John Pitt, treasurer.

Steinle Figured in '38 Political Upheaval

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The candidacy of Roland Steinle for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator contains echoes of one of the significant and strikingly interesting incidents in the recent political history of the state.

Those citizens of Wisconsin who attained voting age in the last few years perhaps won't remember so clearly, but the former supreme court judge was an active participant in the 1938 Democrat-Republican coalition movement which changed the subsequent political life of the state more than any other political organization of modern times.

Although the incident took place only about twenty years ago this spring, he is one of a relatively small handful of survivors of the group that was fortuitously timed, as it turned out, and arranged a complete reversal of the political disposition of Wisconsin.

Steinle had been an unsuccessful candidate on an unsuccessful Republican ticket in 1936. He had run for lieutenant governor, in competition with the nominees of the then dominant Progressive party and the then moribund and demoralized Democratic party. The election returns had become ever more clear. The conservatives of the two older parties had to consolidate their forces, if they hoped to retire the LaFollette Progressives.

HOW IT BEGAN

A small group of like-minded Democrats and Republicans, having little else but resolution, decided to put together a coalition ticket that would be filed in the fall primaries.

Robert K. Henry, since deceased, was the choice of the sponsoring committee for the governorship. He had been a Democratic treasurer of the state, but he was a conservative as measured against the LaFollette philosophy. The Republican sponsors of the movement wanted a conservative Democrat, to persuade conservative Democratic voters of the feasibility of Democrat-Republican cooperation that had been tested skillfully by a Democrat-Republican alliance against Gov. Phil LaFollette in the legislatures of 1935 and 1937.

Henry made a stout campaign, won the Democratic nomination, and lost the Republican nomination to the late Julius P. Heil. Withdrawing in favor of Heil, he undoubtedly contributed heavily to the smashing triumph of Heil over LaFollette in the 1938 elections.

OTHER RESULTS

That ill-financed, ill-organized, but stoutly led coalition group of 1938 produced other lasting effects on the political life of Wisconsin that may have been forgotten by younger voters. It drew Walter S. Goodland of Racine out of retirement, and although he grumbled characteristically, he became lieutenant governor, later governor, and produced some of the most colorful chapters of the Wisconsin political story.

In its haste and inexperience, it listed on its first publicity release as a candidate for state treasurer a Shell Lake banker who had not even been told of his candidacy. But the late John M. Smith was willing enough, as it turned out, and served a sufficient time in that office to create a lasting legend of bucolic virtue.

Perhaps more important among its achievements was persuading John E. Martin, then a relatively unknown Milwaukee lawyer, to run for attorney general. It was one of the luckiest decisions Martin ever made — when he pondered the telephone call from Madison and decided there wasn't much to lose by permitting his name to be listed.

Martin served five terms as head of the state's law department, became one of the most successful vote-getters on the Republican slate, was elevated to the state supreme court by a later Republican governor and now sits as the chief justice of that most eminent tribunal.

Air Service Before 1959, Pifer Predicts

Could Come Within Next Two Months, Leader Tells Chamber

Outagamie county will have airline service at its Appleton port before the end of the year, maybe within two months.

This was the prediction which William Pifer, chamber of commerce airport committee chairman, made for the chamber's board of directors Thursday.

The county has applied to the civil aeronautics board for airline service. Since neither the probable carrier, North Central Airlines, nor any governmental agency has objected, an order for airline service apparently is assured. The order, it has been said, awaits a CAB decision after appeals of other communities' cases to which the county petition is tied.

Pifer minimized the effect of the debate between the airline and state over which of two routes should serve the county port.

Five Youths Ordered to Pay For $1,500 Damage at Home

Five youths Thursday were ordered to pay $1,500 for damages done to a vacant home at 1735 D. Second street Halloween night.

County Judge Stanley A. Staidl said the youths would be kept under supervision of the county welfare department until each had paid his $300 share.

The house, a part of the Spoerl estate, was entered by several groups of youths Halloween. Police caught five and brought them to the police station. The five were turned over to the juvenile court after police determined that the amount of damage done to the home was in dispute. Heirs claimed that $3,500 damage had been done. The $1,500 was a compromise figure worked out before the youths were brought to court.

Three of the youths are 16. Two are 17. One has a previous juvenile record for stealing beer.

The house has been vacant about three years and has been a center for juvenile groups roaming around the city looking for something to do, police indicated.

Damage reported after the Halloween rampage included destruction of rail posts and railings on a porch, kitchen stove, piano, chest of drawers, window frames, mirrors, bathroom fixtures and plaster broken in numerous places.

The youths appeared in juvenile court before Judge Staidl with their parents. All agreed to make restitution for the damage and some have made partial payments.

1957 Accident Rate Tops All Class A Plants in U. S., Canada

Kimberly—First place in type and posted a new all-time record of paper mills with 2.964,923 man hours worked without a disabling injury. Kimberly mill employees consistently have maintained a quinquennial safety record through the agency rate of 1.29 accidents per million man hours of work, ranking alone for this top honor. There are 64 pulp and paper mills in class A with its pre-1917. The mill safety steering committee, meeting this week, made plans for a recognition program when the 1957 award is to be presented.

Kimberly, with its 1957 frequency rate of 1.29 accidents per million man hours of work, ranks alone for this top honor. There are 64 pulp and paper mills in class A with its pre-1917. The mill safety steering committee, meeting this week, made plans for a recognition program when the 1957 award is to be presented.

The award is particularly significant in that it occurred during the final phases of the plant's major expansion program and installation and start-up of the giant new paper machine. Harry Pierce, plant manager, said, "Much of the expansion work was carried on within the mill as it continued full production and every department of our plant was affected in some way. Even under these conditions, our people were able to work safer than any other mill of our size in the United States and Canada."

Kimberly mill has 1,461 employees. During the major part of last year, the plant also had an average of 350 field service employees working in its mill.

Kimberly employees' last year won the class A first place honor at the end of 1957 when it ranked first among mills of its size.

It was brought out that this typing experience proved beneficial to the child who had reading difficulties.

Mr. Mann made the following recommendations to the board regarding the Gifted Child: 1. In her booklet on the Gifted Child in the Regular Classroom, says "It is generally agreed that identifying the gifted child as early in his life as possible is highly desirable from the standpoint of both the full development of his abilities, and his personal adjustment."

In line with that thinking, our first recommendation is that the gifted child be identified as soon as possible by means of the following instruments: a) Intelligence tests on a group basis followed by individual achievement tests, either Stanford-Binet, or Wechsler.

b) Achievement tests showing accomplishment (California Test).

c) Aptitude tests in areas of music, art and certain other non-intellectual areas.

d) Teacher judgment. This material shall be analyzed and organized by the Personnel and Guidance Department and given the administration for determination of better placement of the gifted child.

The Guidance Department, as well as teachers and principals, shall encourage children to have complete freedom of choice in which the child shows aptitude and interest.

Child guidance for a long time has been a hazy, indefinite program shall be given. Stress in all classroom activities the necessity of development of an enquiring mind. The school program for the gifted child shall be enhanced by other transferring the child within the school system or his enrollment of his program in the following ways: a) Taking comprehensive examinations in the field of his possible interest for a child to take a subject area in which he is competent.

Robert Roemer, Mayor and Members of the Common Council.

February 5, 1958
Dear Sir and Gentlemen: Very soon after the recent meeting of your Board of Public Works with the Board of Education, the latter body appointed a committee to consider land available on the North side of our city for future Junior High School purposes and make recommendations.

The report of that committee to the Board of Education is attached. Also attached is an option of the Fred Lecker land, the price of this being $2,461.45 per acre. Mr. John Nygren of the Nygren Real Estate firm assured us he has the full and complete confidence of Mr. Jon. Hughes and therefore that such land is available (even without taking the entire 30 acres that he built) though a firm option has not at this moment been worked out. The price of the Hughes land is $1,200.00 per acre.

The Board of Education felt the report of its committee on this effort was not sufficiently explicit in their recommendation. First: That the Lecker land is its first choice, primarily because of the price of the Hughes land.

Second: That the Hughes land is therefore its second choice. Third: That the Hooyman land and the Rohloff land is not recommended at all, and Fourth: The minimum land needed to accommodate a public park is not a part thereof or in conjunction therewith, is 20 acres.

Fifth: That the purchase of this needed land be made soon. If the Board of Education can do anything to facilitate and speed this necessary purchase, please call upon it. Respectfully, C. C. Jesse Committee Chairman. The board discussed plans for keeping the City Council and the public in general better informed in regard to school building needs in the future.

March 3, 1958 was set as the next tour of inspection. Data Washington and Columbus Schools will be visited. The board made a recommendation for the purchase of six blank etc. the need for which came to the attention of the board during their last tour of inspection. It was suggested that this matter be referred to Mr. Knuth.

The following committee for study of the model system for teachers was appointed by the President, Mr. Harder: Mr. Krueger, Mrs. Davis, Mr. E. A. Connelley, Mr. F. A. Connelley to the Superintendent and members of the board was voiced by Mr. R. Win- Chairman of the Welfare Committee.

The board requested that copies of the Welfare Committee report be forwarded to all board members. It was moved by Mr. Schneider and seconded by Mr. Jesse that the meeting adjourn.

Needle and Thread Stitch Rich Life for Seamstresses

A simple needle and thread have stitched a rich fabric of living for Mrs. Alta Bethke, one of Appleton's most enthusiastic and prominent seamstresses. With her talented hands, she has spanned 70 fulsome years, the majority devoted to needlecraft wizardry.

Sunday afternoon, a portion of her craft will be displayed through the hands of other women, her pupils, who will exhibit drapes, slipcovers and lampshades from 1:30 to 5 o'clock at the Appleton Vocational school open house.

For 15 years Mrs. Bethke has guided Appleton women, teaching her skills with patience and experience gained as dressmaker and professional craftswoman in the home furnishings field. Her "scholars" have not been limited to Appleton women, however, as throngs attending Kaukauna, Neenah and Menasha Vocational classes have also benefited from her efforts.

Sewed 64 Years
"I began sewing 64 years ago," Mrs. Bethke recalled Wednesday afternoon as she sat in her sunny parlor at 915 N. Appleton street. Her blue eyes twinkled as she traced the active years since girlhood on a homestead farm at Leppla's Corners (intersection of Highways 10 and 45).

First public recognition of her needlecraft came at the age of 12 when she entered a prize-winning nightgown in the Outagamie county fair, then held at Hortonville. "Mother said it was rather grimy," she admitted with a chuckle. "I'd sew an hour, then go out and play with my cats and dogs."

Like her contemporaries, the young Alta learned intricate embroidery stitches early, and often the Leppa buckboard was hitched outside the Appleton My-Store, run by Jacob and Julia Ferber, parents of the novelist Edna Ferber. "You could find everything there," the seamstress mused, and pointed to a plate rail holding two souvenir hand-painted vases.

Needlecraft secrets, painstakingly taught by her mother and a sister who trained at an early dressmaking college in Appleton, were among trousseau treasures that Mrs. Bethke took as a bride to Loveland, Col., where her bridegroom opened a buggy top shop. Widowed after two and one-half months of marriage, Mrs. Bethke returned home to have her baby daughter, Augusta, now Mrs. William Blum of 130 E. Frances street.

Opened Dressmaking Business
The white-haired grandmother smoothed a white christening dress, tucked and detailed with embroidery and lace trim. "This was Augusta's," she said, "and if my expected great-grandchild is a girl, it will be worn again." Motherhood years passed swiftly for Mrs. Bethke, who handled part-time dressmaking at her home for five years while keeping a watchful eye on her pre-schooler. Then she was hired by the former Fritz Dress shop and next went into alteration work for Petti-bone and Peabody (the present H. C. Prange company), where she later headed the drapery department for 25 years.

Working conditions for women were far different in those years, the vital woman remembered. Rush assignments often carried sewing chores far into the evening, while employers eluded Federal investigators checking abuses of laws limiting working hours.

Change in Home Decor
Home furnishings have also changed in the intervening years, Mrs. Bethke pointed out. Lace curtains and the rich upholstery fabrics which decked parlors of earlier eras have been replaced by lined drapes for picture windows and nubby, washable materials covering modern furniture.

The tall white-haired woman glanced at a trim green sofa and said, "Slipcovering is fit, pin and sew. You work from the right side to get a tight fit." The modest seamstress claims only a unique cording step as her own, but her professional accomplishments have won acclaim from home economic teachers, who she has taught for 13 years at summer sessions at Stout State college, Menomonie.

Employed on the average about 27 hours weekly on her circuit of Fox Cities vocational schools, Mrs. Bethke has noted a rise in interest and quality of slipcovering done over the years. This she credits to the better fabrics produced after the sparse war years and a desire of homemakers to pare home furnishing costs.

Tell Program For Joint Meet Of Music Clubs

A joint meeting of Wednesday Musicales and its student unit was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Francis Scholtz, 57 Garden court, with members of both clubs participating in a recital program.

Piano selections by Beethoven and Bach were played by Miss Pamela Gruhn, while John Scribner played a baritone horn solo by Alexandra Guilmon, with Miss Astrida Akmentins as accompanist.

Mrs. Carl Sager, flutist, played works by Maurice Ravel and Jacques Ibert, accompanied by Mrs. Paul Høllinger, who also played works by Bela Bartok and Prokofiev. Selections by Tergolei and Ravel were sung by Mrs. Scholtz, with her husband as accompanist.

VBPW to Hold Benefit Card Party

Future agenda was decided by Valley Business and Professional Women, who met Monday night at the Hotel Appleton for a supper meeting. Officers will be named at a benefit card party April 8, which the unit will stage at the Ambrosia room of Elmtree bakery.

Mrs. Clyde Nelson will serve as chairman of the party which will feature dessert from 7 to 7:30, and card play until 11 o'clock. Each member will sponsor her own table and proceeds of the benefit will be donated to the unit's pledge for the Appleton Memorial hospital.

Name slate will be presented at the meeting by nominating committee members, including Mrs. Walter Brummund, chairman, Appleton, Mrs. Carl Lorenz, Menasha, and Miss Stell Brandt, Appleton.

In other action, members voted to support a proposed state-sponsored youth study project in Appleton, which would be carried out by the Appleton Community council. If the project locates here, the women will help in research of juvenile delinquency and related social ills.

Mrs. Mabel McClanahan, state president, and Miss Stell Brandt, state corresponding secretary, will travel to Medford March 31 to assist at chartering exercises in that city.

College Production Of Bard's 'Much Ado' Top Entertainment

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Lawrence College theater's presentation was "Much Ado About Nothing" Thursday night but it added up to a solid evening of entertainment based on remarkable research and loving care and marked another directorial triumph for Mrs. Warren Cary.

Shakespeare is nothing if not spectacle, a harmonious mélange of color, motion, music and finely wrought speeches, and the Lawrence production gave the Bard his due in all categories.

The lightweight comedy was staged in the mode of the Globe theater on a 3-sided playing area with no curtain nor realistic scenery. The delightfully imaginative props were changed with much ado under subdued lights by an agile crew of gentlemen assisted by an actor or two.

The costumes were authentic and brightly colored. The villain of the piece wore a scarlet and black doublet and cape with a fine diabolic air and his henchmen were stealthily clad in dark blue and indigo.

Original Music
The music was again provided by James Ming, whose original Elizabethan-like score was recorded by an ensemble of strings and woodwinds, and Carroll Gonzos' beautiful voice filled Shakespeare's "Sigh No More, Ladies" and "Pardon, Goddess of the Night" to add to the Medieval setting.

"Ado" is not one of Shakespeare's finest works, but the genius at his least redounds with sense, nonsense insight and merriment.

The great commotion of the title is something like the taming of two shrews with words not bullying, while two lovers become star-crossed through the machinations of a villainous fellow seeking revenge.

For comedy relief, the Bard, at times, turns the stage over to the citizens of the night watch whose pretentious efforts to be wordily and wise make them resemble a troupe of mechanics turned actors.

In this context, it is appropriate to name William Wood as the vindictive, malapropos head constable, Dogberry; Frederic Ruf as his nearly senile compeer, Verges, and Bert Elliott, John Ellerman and George Purucker as their comic constabulary. Wood, especially, brought dimension to a role that could easily have been veneer thin. All gave full measure of merriment.

The meat of the show was served by Peter Roberts as the Hamlet-like male shrew, Benedict, and Cornelia Dohr as his counterpart, Beatrice. Roberts' low keyed portrayal complemented Miss Dohr's brighter interpretation to set the tone of the production.

Sure Handed Portrayals
The catalytic element of the plot, Don Pedro, was lined with a sure hand by Walter Scott teaming with Frank Gaylord as Leonato, the lord of the manor and the father of the wronged girl, Hero, played prettily by Rowan Schmidt. The other pawn in the mix-up, Claudio, was handled by Dennis O'Flynn. Thomas Trettin tattered and trembled as Antonio, Beatrice's father.

Neil Lien, Craig Castle and Todd Zeiss composed the rewardingly black hearted trio. Lien was the unctuous Don Pedro and Zeiss, his insolent henchman.

William Richards brought to life the friar whose stratagem sets all of the ado to rights and Janet Davenport and Susan Dilday made port ladies in waiting. Joseph Baldwin appeared as a lord and a messenger.

There was only one flaw in the evening. A mere corporal's guard turned out to appreciate the top flight entertainment contrived by the players. It was an oversight surely to be corrected at tonight and Saturday night's performances and Sunday's matinee.

Your Problems

Night-Club Chorus Line No Place for a Wife and Mother

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I'm a married man in flight training and having serious trouble with my wife.

Ann Landers thought it'd be fun for her because she helped to put me through school and was pretty tired. My sister agreed to keep our 2-year-old baby.

Everything was fine for two weeks, then I began to worry when I couldn't reach her on the phone. It was apparent she was on the go night and day. After a month I realized she'd written me only three letters.

I decided to fly out to Las Vegas and surprise her. She wasn't at all glad to see me, in fact she resented my "intrusion". She said I didn't trust her and that she wanted a divorce. I'm heart sick and don't want my family broken up. She insists she wants to remain in Las Vegas and be free. Her lawyer talked her into a 6-month cooling off period. Do you think there's any hope? where did I make my mistake?

—ABC
Your first mistake was letting her enter the contest. A wife and mother doesn't belong in the chorus of a night-club for "fun". If a girl makes her living this way, it's another matter. But a chorus line is no place to "rest".

You don't have to give her a divorce just because she wants it. The 6-month cooling off period may save the situation. In time she may realize that the tinsel and glitter is a mighty poor second to solid family life. Most of the girls out there are looking for exactly the life your wife is turning her back on. Let's hope she wakes up and smells the coffee.

DEAR ANN: I work for a very nice man, cooking and cleaning and giving him his medicine. He's confined to the house as a result of a car accident. His wife works and leaves me a list of things to do. Lately he's been following me around the house and although I can't say he's actually fresh, he makes personal remarks and tells me his wife doesn't like him.

I'm not a young, foolish girl, and I'm not what you'd call pretty. His wife is smart-looking and 10 years younger than I am. I can't figure this out.

I've tried being mean to him but he still limps after me. I need my job. The pay is good and this place is near my own home. I'd hate to quit. Any advice for me? — W.D.

Don't quit. Tell the pest if he doesn't leave you alone you'll inform his wife that a patient who is well enough to chase the help is well enough to go to work. Your problem is simple: You've never gotten tough enough and he's not convinced that you mean business.

DEAR ANN: How much do children owe their parents, anyway? My father has lived with us for 17 years. During the first 10 years he worked and was home just weekends. Seven years ago he retired and now he's under my feet every living minute of the day. He has an income and money in the bank, yet he pays no room and board and never buys a loaf of bread for the house. He won't even supply his own toothpaste.

We are far from rich; in fact, it's tough for us to make ends meet. I skimp and make the kid's clothes and cut corners wherever I can. My brother says "someday" I may be repaid, but we need help now. What do you say? Am I an ungrateful child? — D.G.

You don't say how many other children your father has, but your letter indicates at least one. He should come to the rescue and not saddle you with the total responsibility. The least he can do is take Pa off your hands for a few months at a time and give you a rest.

If your dad were broke and sick it would be a different matter. You can't throw a parent out into the street. But as things stand, you should tell him frankly that you need some help with the monthly bills. This man should be paid loose from his change purse.

Ideas for Shelves, Show-Off and Practical

When in doubt, put up shelves. Nothing else solves as many problems as nimbly as shelves do, both the practical and the decorative kind.

Today's favorite shelves are sketched lightly on the walls instead of boxed in. Perforated metal stripping takes metal brackets at the best levels to hold the shelves now, and allows them to be moved as easily as the books on them later. Wood for the shelves is very often as fine as the wood of the furniture in the room and is given furniture finish. The stripping and brackets can be brass or brass finished as well as satin-silver or bright steel.

Decorate a featured wall in the living room? There are possibilities everywhere, even on the windows, and with these adjustable shelves it's not even necessary to be right the first time as you put them up. Sketch out a design idea for the shelves, but if a change of heights is an improvement, the change is no problem at all. (Copyright, 1958) out looking too heavy. And there's no question about how much more attractive the composition is than if the shelves all were the chest width. Where a table would be handy and there's almost no room for it, shelves can often go on duty. They leave an airy space beneath which would be crowded by table legs, and as they are here beside the chair, a second shelf full-length below the top one is so easily added to the table-top useful shelf. Look around the house now. Where can shelves either come to the rescue, to organize every day equipment in a closet, or on the kitchen wall, or to decorate a featured wall in the living room? There are possibilities everywhere, even on the windows, and with these adjustable shelves it's not even necessary to be right the first time as you put them up. Sketch out a design idea for the shelves, but if a change of heights is an improvement, the change is no problem at all. (Copyright, 1958)

Don't Make Scene About Gift of Fee

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: I found it necessary lately to consult a lawyer about a legal matter. This lawyer happens to be an old family friend. He spent a good deal of time on this matter and when I asked him what his fee was, he said there was none. I feel terribly about this and would like to know if it would be proper for me to send a check anyway for what I think would be his fee. If this is not proper, will you please tell me what I can do to repay his kindness?
Answer: Don't send a check. You can, however, go to him personally and offer him the check saying, "I am deeply grateful for what you did for me. Won't you please let me give you what I can in compensation?" If he refuses, there is nothing to do but to thank him for his kindness to you. In short, don't make a scene of it.
Very Young Aunt
Dear Mrs. Post: I have an aunt who is only five years my senior. We are both married and travel in the same circle. When we are with others I feel rather foolish calling her "Aunt Jane." Would it be proper under these circumstances to leave off the "Aunt" and just call her "Jane"?
Answer: It seems to me that in view of the small difference in your ages, your aunt would be glad to tell you to call her "Jane" if you ask her if she has no objection.

Beauty Holidays Improve Health, Outlook

BY MARIAN MATTHEWS
Where you go this spring or summer and how you spend your holiday can improve your health, disposition and good looks. It will take a little planning for the successful culmination of all three but if you begin early, chances are you will succeed.
The younger you are, the less you plan is usually the rule but as you mature you grow wise in the way of vacations and realize how beneficial you can make them. For long trips, it is wise to have the expert guidance of a good travel agent — particularly if it is a first trip to a foreign country. As you grow older you may not enjoy a hurried trip with short stops on the way, or keeping up with a tour that moves at quick pace. Instead plan something of interest with longer stopovers.
What should you get from your vacation? It should give you a fresh outlook, no matter what your age. You should be stimulated by a change of scene; meeting new people. Your general health should be improved by the balance of leisure and exercise. Plenty of walking can trim your figure and tone your body in a few weeks.
Try to benefit your general health with careful eating on a holiday. Don't feel it is a time to gain weight — you'll be miserable about a 10-pound gain and if it is more you'll be desperate. Better to keep a check on yourself so that you have no regrets later.

Mrs. Paul Cary Reelected Head Of Polio Unit

March of Dimes January Campaign Totaled $28,563

Mrs. Paul V. Cary was reelected chairman of the Outagamie county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis by the 15-member executive committee Thursday night. The committee met after the annual dinner meeting at the Appleton Elks club.
Also renamed to posts were Joseph Varka, vice chairman, Mrs. Raymond Bender, secretary, and Cleborne Van Abel, treasurer.

The final tally for the January March of Dimes campaign, announced Thursday, amounted to $28,563.77, about $900 less than last year.

Both John Barlow, general campaign chairman, and Harlan Hunger, field representative for the state foundation, declared the drive was a success since drops in returns were expected.

"Outagamie county did the best job in northern Wisconsin if not in the whole state," Hunger remarked. "We had been expecting large decreases in donations because of apathy and unemployment."

Breakdown
Barlow's breakdown showed $17,339.30 collected in Appleton, $3,001.26 in Kaukauna, $2,598.70 in Little Chute, $1,340.47 in Kimberly, $1,136.39 in Combined Locks, $778.43 in Seymour, $456.32 in Black Creek, $397.04 in Hortonville, $332.10 in Freedom, $269.09 in Shiocton, $221.07 in Bear Creek, $179.59 in Dale and $514.01 from county schools.

Mrs. Cary noted the county chapter spent $23,000 for 83 county polio patients in 1957, a figure that included sending one patient to Georgia Warm Springs for treatment and paying for 404 hospital days.
The emphasis was on applications and surgery last year, she explained.

State Constitution Adopted 110 Years Ago This Week

It was 110 years ago this week that the voters of Wisconsin adopted a state constitution. The document was drafted in a 7-week convention in Madison and approved by the people on March 13, 1848. An earlier draft of the constitution had been turned down at the polls in 1846.

When most people think of "civil rights" as guaranteed to them by the constitution, they think of the United States constitution and its bill of rights. Few people realize how important their state constitution is in this respect.

The bill of rights was originally a limitation only on the powers of the federal government. Not until the 14th amendment was adopted after the Civil war did some — but not all — of the protections of the bill of rights become limitations on the state governments.

To make sure the citizens of the new state would have all of the rights listed in the bill of rights, the authors of the new Wisconsin constitution wrote into the very first article of their document rights very closely copying nearly every provision of the first ten amendments to the federal constitution.
But the Wisconsin constitution authors added more rights law.)

Frozen Farm Supports to Hike Expenses

Senate Bill Puts 1957 Floor Under Subsidy Payments

BY OVID A. MARTIN
Washington —(U)— Action of any kind by the government freezing farm price supports at not less than 1957 levels probably would require some drastic changes in the $750 million acreage reserve program of the soil bank program.

The senate passed a bill Thursday which would set the 1957 levels as a floor for this year.

It would raise the price support for wheat from the announced minimum of $1.78 to $2 a bushel.

Wheat farmers either have agreed or offered to retire 5,442,000 acres of what allotment land from production this year in return for soil bank payments based on the assumption that wheat supports would be $1.78.

Might Change Minds
But a boost of 22 cents a bushel in the wheat support rate might well lead many of these farmers to protest that they would not have idled that amount of land had they known the support would have been $2. The soil bank land retirement rate for wheat was based on the $1.78 figure.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson called attention to this situation in a statement Thursday criticizing legislation to freeze price supports.

Department officials said the government would be under moral obligation to raise the soil bank payment rates on wheat to put them in line with the higher wheat supports if the latter were re-established.

Add $12 Million
Payments to wheat growers now are estimated at about $108 million. If higher soil bank rates are ordered for wheat, they would cost the government at least another $12 million, officials said.

Similar problems would not necessarily arise in connection with farmers retiring cotton, corn, rice and tobacco land under the soil bank. The latter still have time to pull out of the soil bank before planting time. But winter wheat, which makes up the bulk of the wheat crop, was sown last fall and it is too late for growers to withdraw.

Snow, in the form of drizzle or flurries in some parts, is forecast for tonight for parts of New England, interior of New York and Pennsylvania, the eastern lakes region, northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, northeastern North Dakota and central Montana. Showers are expected in California, Nevada and Arizona. Cool air over the plains will envelope most of the area from the Rockies eastward to the Atlantic with little temperature change elsewhere. Predict Snow, Cloudiness For Weekend

Heavy Snowfall Hampers Travel In Northeast U. S.

A cloudy weekend, punctuated with occasional snow flurries, appears to be in prospect for the Fox Cities and Wisconsin.

Light snow or snow flurries fell in most of the state Thursday night and early today. Up to 3 inches of snow fell in Bayfield and Marinette counties, but elsewhere amounts on the ground today were negligible.

Nighttime temperatures moved a bit higher than those reported for several days. Minimums ranged from a low of 18 degrees at Stevens Point to 31 at Kenosha, compared with the nation's low of 12 degrees below zero at Bryce Canyon, Utah.

Appleton had a low of 26 overnight after a high of 37 Thursday. The temperature at 11 o'clock this morning was 31, with the wind from the northwest at 10 miles an hour. Light snow brought a trace of precipitation.

State Forecast
The state forecast calls for occasional light snow or snow flurries tonight. Saturday there will be occasional light snow or snow flurries diminishing and becoming mostly cloudy in the extreme south. There will be little change in temperature. The low tonight will be from 18 to 20, and the high Saturday from 28 to 38. The outlook for Sunday is for partly cloudy with scattered snow flurries in the extreme north portion and little change in temperature. There will be little or no maple sap run today or Saturday.

Elsewhere in the country, the Associated Press reported a heavy snowstorm snuffed out a spell of springlike weather in the northeast today and caused major disruption of airplane and highway travel.

Almost a foot of snow had fallen before noon in parts of Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and upstate New York — and still was falling.

To Taper Off
The late season storm, coming just six days before spring, was headed across New England toward the ocean and was expected to taper off by tonight.

The temperature hung around the freezing mark, causing treacherous icing conditions on many highways. Traffic was snarled or slowed through the storm area.

Operations at LaGuardia airport in New York were brought to a virtual standstill. At least 50 flights were cancelled. The city's Idlewild airport cancelled two dozen flights, 16 of

Change Attitude Toward Jones Park, Petitioners Ask

A petition calling for a revised attitude toward Jones park was filed Thursday at city hall.

Mrs. Thomas Planner, 317 S. Elm street, filed the petition. The signatures of 342 people are included.

- The petition calls for:
1. Cleaning up debris, brush and rubble immediately and a year-round cleaning operation.
 2. Restoration of the park to the same status as other parks in the city.
 3. Installation of playground equipment, play areas, tables and shelters.
 4. Supervised play in the park during the summer.

The petition will go to the city council March 19 and probably will be referred to both the park board and the recreation commission. The commission has charge of supervised summer playgrounds.
Park Board Sec. Arthur Jones said the board welcomes the petition and will do all it can to meet its demands. The park, he said, has been cleaned weekly, the same schedule maintained for other parks, but since it is in a deep ravine and without a great deal shade has never been treated as other parks.

Vike Trackmen Will Compete At Naperville

Seek 2nd Straight High Finish of Indoor Campaign

Lawrence college's track team, which took third place in last week's Midwest conference indoor meet, makes a bid for another high finish Saturday at Naperville, Ill.

The Vikes will compete in the nineteenth North Central indoor track meet. Eleven entries in addition to Lawrence, will compete in the division for schools of less than 1,100 enrollment. Thirteen are entered in the division for larger schools.

Coach Gene Davis, who is temporarily in charge of the squad, plans to take approximately the same personnel as made the trip to Chicago last weekend. Track Coach and Athletic Director Art Denney is still hospitalized.

Strong in Weights
Lawrence looms strong in the weights, in which it is represented by Gil Sutherland and John Winsor. Sutherland won the conference shot put title with a toss of 45 feet, 6 1/2 inches last Friday. Winsor placed fourth.

Lawrence's two other individual placers were Gary Scovel and Ron Simon. Scovel was fifth in the 60-yard high hurdles, while Simon placed fifth in the 2-mile run.

The Vikes also placed in three relay events at Chicago — third in the distance medley, third in the 2-mile and fifth in the mile. Lawrence's relay-men include Ted Sutherland, Dave Berganini, Tad Pinkerton, Dave Mulford, Len Hall, Jim Smith and Ron Traver.

Detroit — The Detroit Lions Thursday said a pre-season football game with the Philadelphia Eagles has been scheduled for Sept. 13 at Norman, Okla., with a capacity crowd of 61,000 guaranteed.

Lions General Manager Nick Kerbaw said all seats were bought by a super market chain which would give out tickets to customers. He said there will be no public sale of tickets.

Veterans Do the Hitting

Braves Thump Dodgers Behind Rookie Hurlers

Bradenton, Fla. — With rookies Terry Fox, Ken MacKenzie and Don Nottebart on the mound and veterans starting at most other positions, the Milwaukee Braves beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 8-2, in an exhibition game Thursday.

While the trio of young hurlers held the Dodgers to one earned run on eight scattered hits, the Braves pounded Dodgers veteran Johnny Podres for six runs on six hits in the first two innings. Milwaukee then coasted to its second victory in five starts.

Allows 2 Hits
Fox who started for the Braves and was the winner, turned in the best performance, allowing the Burns only two hits in three innings. MacKenzie and Nottebart also worked three innings each, with MacKenzie giving up four hits and the Dodgers earned run while

UW Athletic Board Keeps Veteran Cage Coach at Helm, Pledges Wholehearted Support

Madison — Harold "Bud" Foster was given a vote of confidence by the University of Wisconsin athletic board Thursday and began making plans for his twenty-fifth season as Badger basketball coach.

"I'm very glad about it. It's a good feeling," said Foster who did not attend the meeting but learned of the outcome in a telephone call from Athletic Director Ivan Williamson.

"Now I have to get rested up for the big tournament weekend coming up," Foster added. His next job will be to contact high school players who will be in Madison next

Hawkins Fires '6-Under' 66 Leads Pensacola Open Tourney By One Stroke

Pensacola, Fla. — Fred Hawkins, playing the best golf of his 10-year pro career, was the pace-setter in today's second round of the $15,000 Pensacola Open tournament.

The veteran from El Paso, Texas, moved out in front Thursday with a 6-under-par 66, despite blowing himself to a far seven on one hole.

Hawkins collected seven birdies on the first 13 holes.

PGA officials said the nine birdies Hawkins had for the round were the most scored on a single round since the start of the winter tournaments.

Otto Griener, a club pro from Tenafly, N.J., was one stroke back at 67.

Another stroke back were Bo Winger of Odessa, Texas, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and Don Whitt of Alameda, Calif.

Ken Venturi, the San Francisco stylist, shot a 2-under-par 70, although it was his first time to step on the course.

Bill Casper, who won the New Orleans Open title in a sudden death playoff with Venturi, had putting trouble and ended up with a 74.

Beverly Hanson Fires 72 for Tourney Lead

Augusta, Ga. — Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., matched par with a 72 Thursday to take first round lead in the Women's Titleholders Golf championship.

Nottebart was tapped for two hits and an unearned score. Milwaukee collected its first two runs off Podres on a single by Al Spangler, a double by Felix Mantilla, and infield outs by Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron.

The second inning assault, good for four runs, was spiced by consecutive doubles by Andy Pafko and Johnny Logan, making their first Grapefruit league starts.

Pafko opened with a 2-bagger and scored on the one by Logan. Del Crandall singled, moved to second on a sacrifice by Fox and waited as Spangler walked before running home on Mantilla's double. Spangler crossed the plate on Mathews' infield out.

The last two Milwaukee runs came in the eighth when Earl Hersh singled off Bob Giallombardo and scored on a triple by Wes Covington, making spring. A sacrifice fly by "Casey" Wise sent Covington home.

The Dodgers got their first run in the sixth when Felipe Montemayor banded one of MacKenzie's pitches for a homer. The unearned run crossed in the ninth when Nottebart uncorked a wild pitch that allowed Joe Pignatano to score.

The Braves and Philadelphia Phillies were matched here today.

week for the state prep basketball tournament.

Foster, dean of the Big Ten coaches, had been under fire since his 1957-8 team finished last in the Western conference for the first time in Badger history.

Doubt Removed
All doubt about his status was removed when the board said in a 43-word statement that the best interests of the university would be served by retaining Foster as head coach. The statement added:

"As in the past, the board will continue to give Mr. Foster its wholehearted support."

Foster met with the board last Monday, but there was no action taken on his future. The board described the meeting as a "question and answer period."

The coach smiled broadly when interviewed at a downtown hotel where he was attending a private party for members of the athletic department. He was asked about the meeting on Monday and said he outlined in detail the problems of recruiting good basketball material — especially a big center.

He said that was about all he contributed to the meeting. Foster's teams have won three conference titles, the last in 1947. He is also a member of the District Four rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

Questions about his future were raised by the Daily Cardinal, the university newspaper. It pointed out that not only did the Badgers finish last in the past season, but were ninth the year before.

Foster said at that time, "The going gets pretty rough if your bosses aren't behind you," and indicated he would consider resigning if he failed to get a vote of confidence.

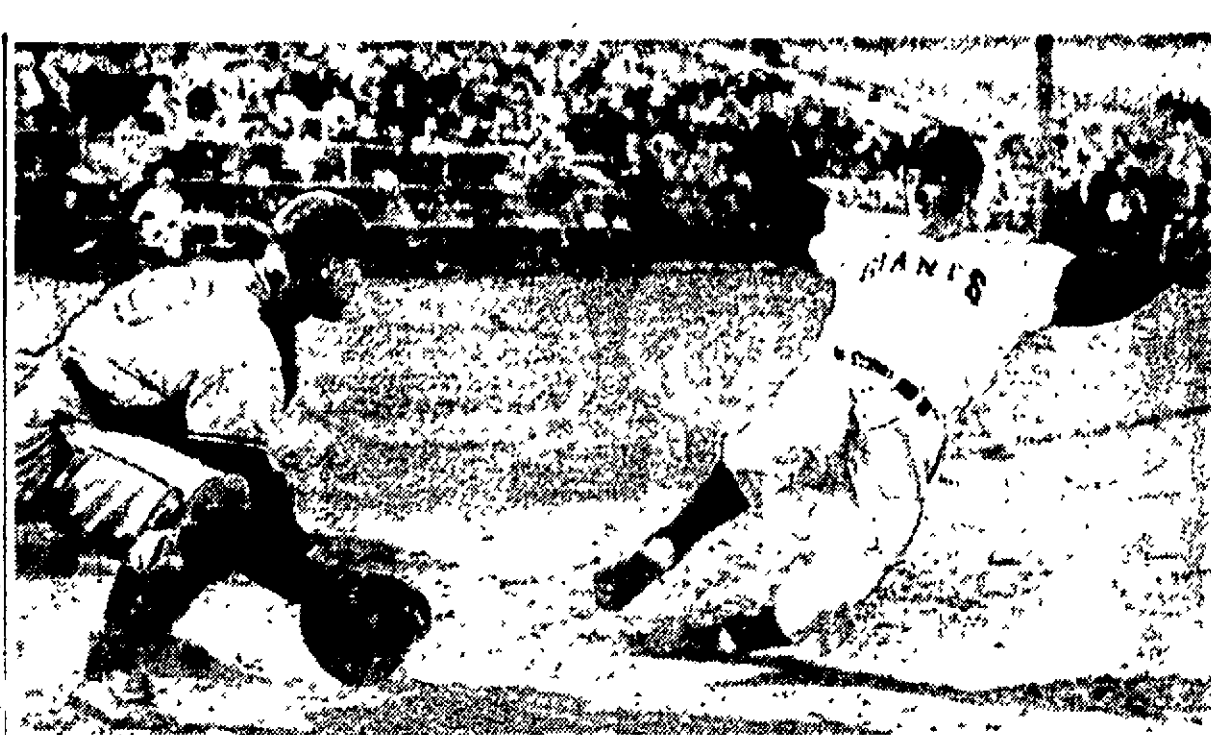

With the rank of professor, Foster could be dropped from the faculty only on action by the university board of regents, but the athletic board has the power to dismiss him as coach.

Cubs Now Have Full-Time Staff Of 26 Scouts

Phoenix, Ariz. — Chicago Cubs Vice President John Holland says the Bruins have stepped up their search for talent and now have a full-time staff of 26 scouts seeking promising material.

Holland said that last year the Cubs signed 90 new ball players compared with an average 40 or 45 in previous seasons.

He said the Cubs called in 25 of their best minor leaguers for special spring instruction with the hope that this might hasten advancement to the regular roster.

Chixos Are Making Movie About the Life of a Rookie

Tampa, Fla. — In the midst of all the spring training, the Chicago White Sox are making a film about the life of a rookie.

Starring in the movie is outfielder John Callison.

Ed Short, chief tub-thumper for the Sox, is directing the film.

But Hollywood need not fear even slight competition from the Sox' movie company. The film, running 20 minutes, depicts the behind the scenes life of a young ballplayer and will be shown to boys' clubs and similar groups after the World Series.

Burdette Says His Pact Calls For a Raise of Only $2,500

Bradenton, Fla. — Milwaukee Braves pitcher Lew Burdette says he got only a $2,500 raise when he signed his contract Thursday.

The big righthander provided the terms himself, but not before he said:

"I never really knew how bad I was until the management started talking to me. I wonder who was winning those games. They sounded as if I didn't know how to put on my uniform." It was believed he signed for about $35,000.

Burdette added, "I got a $2,500 raise."

He explained that "for years the newspapers had me under what I was making, but now suddenly they make a big deal out of my raise and are close to what I'm actually making." He hurried to the Braves' camp from his home in Sarasota, pulled on his uniform and in a short while was taking a turn in batting practice.

"I feel fine," he said.

While winning 17 games in the regular season, Burdette lost nine games and finished with a 3.71 earned run average. He saved his big performance for the series when he shut out the Yankees twice, in claiming his three victories.

It is estimated he collected $20,000 in personal appearance, and endorsement fees in the wake of his World Series triumphs.

Durrelle Even Money in Bout With Anthony

New York — With a possible title fight hanging in the balance, Canada's brawny Yvon Durrelle and New York's lean Tony Anthony clash tonight in a return battle of light heavyweight contenders.

Late backing for the British Empire 175-pound champion has dropped the odds from the 7-5 favoring Anthony all week to even money.

They will meet over the 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. The bout will be broadcast and telecast (NBC, 9 o'clock, CST).

Sell Standing Room At Neenah Tonight

Standing room for 200 people and, possibly, a few reserved seats tickets for tonight's Neenah Sectional Basketball tournament games will be on sale at the door, Neenah High officials revealed this morning.

Tonight's contests find Appleton meeting Hortonville at 7 o'clock and Manitowoc playing Green Bay East at 8:30.

Cincinnati Meets Kansas State '5'

Temple Plays Maryland in Other Major NCAA Meet Tilt Tonight

By the Associated Press

Ten of the nation's top teams, four of them former champions, join six unranked teams in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament tonight in four regional tournaments. The NIT in New York takes a day off after opening round victories by St. John of New York and St. Joseph of Philadelphia.

Tonight's NCAA doubleheaders at Charlotte, N. C., Lexington, Ky., Lawrence, Kan., and San Francisco will reduce that field to eight. After the regional finals Saturday, only four will remain to battle it out at Louisville March 21-22.

Not Involved

Indiana, Oklahoma State, Kentucky and San Francisco are the former champions among the NCAA contenders but they are not involved in the two big games on tonight's card.

One is the clash at Lawrence between high-scoring and second-ranked Cincinnati, starring All-American Oscar Robertson, the nation's No. 1 individual point getter, and third-ranked Kansas State, led by talented Bob Boozer.

The other is at Charlotte, where All-American Guy Rodgers leads the fifth-ranked Temple Owls in quest of their twenty-fourth straight victory—they have lost two against sixth-ranked Maryland, surprise winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference's playoff tournament.

Here's tonight's lineup with ranking, if any, and records:

Lawrence—Cincinnati, No. 2 (24-2), vs. Kansas State, No. 3 (20-3); Oklahoma State, No. 19 (20-7), vs. Arkansas (18-8).

Charlotte—Maryland, No. 6 (21-6), vs. Temple, No. 5 (24-2); Manhattan (16-8) vs. Dartmouth (21-4).

Lexington—Kentucky, No. 9 (19-6), vs. Miami Ohio (18-7); Notre Dame, No. 8 (23-4), vs. Indiana, No. 12 (12-10).

San Francisco—San Francisco, No. 4 (25-1), vs. Seattle, No. 18 (20-5); Idaho State (22-4) vs. California (18-8).

St. John got off on the right foot in the NIT after a slow start by downing Butler, 83-72. St. Joseph moved up with an 83-72 conquest of St. Peter of Jersey City.

Delany Runs Banker's Mile

Villanova Star Seeks To Break Indoor Record Tonight

Chicago — Ron Delany, Ireland's swift-striding gift to Villanova university, gets his next-to-last 1958 try at the world indoor mile record in the Chicago races tonight.

A capacity 10,000 in the International amphitheater will watch the Irish Olympic champion scurry after the world mark of 4:03.6 which he missed by only a tenth of a second last month.

Four other Olympic gold medal winners will perform in the meet. Delany has won the Olympic 1,500-meter event.

Delany, seeking his twenty-third consecutive indoor victory at the distance, defends the Banker's mile title he won last year in 4:03.8.

Nielsen Has Mark

The world record of 4:03.6 was set by Denmark's Gunnar Nielsen in New York in 1955. Delany was clocked in 4:03.7 in the National AAU championships in New York last month.

Delany has three rivals, including Burr Grinn of the University of Maryland; Jim Beaty, formerly of North Carolina, and Phil Coleman of Chicago.

Delany and Grinn had a little body-checking episode last week as the Irishman triumphed in the mile feature of the K. of C. Meet in New York.

Charley Jenkins, the 400-meter Olympic winner, defends his title at 600 yards. Ira Murchison, member of the victorious U.S. 400-meter relay team in the 1956 Melbourne games, tries to keep his 50-yard title.

Olympic broad jump champion Greg Bell challenges Murchison in the 50. Glenn Davis, Olympic 400-meter hurdle winner, seeks the 60-yard high hurdles title.

ND '5' Is Top Target in NCAA Midwest Meet

Lexington, Ky. — Notre Dame has been fingered as the top target in the NCAA Midwest regional basketball playoffs, which Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp says may produce the NCAA champ.

Cochran Branch McCracken of Indiana, which faces Notre Dame in the regional opener tonight, tagged the Irish as "a terrific club."

And Notre Dame Athletic Director "Moose" Krause calls it the finest Irish team in 20 to 25 years. It ranks No. 8 nationally on a 23-4 mark.

McCracken's Hoosiers surprised everyone with a tremendous late drive to the Big Ten title and No. 12 ranking nationally despite a 12-10 record.

"Notre Dame holds one victory this year over Indiana, but Irish Coach Johnny Jordan said Indiana 'has come a long way' since then.

Wolves, Hot Shots Gain ARD 5th Grade Cage Quarter-Final Round

The Hot Shots, Wolves and Bombers all advanced in Appleton Recreation department Fifth Grade Boys Basketball tournament action earlier in the week.

The Hot Shots dumped the Junior Globetrotters, 19-3, as M. Tepper collected 12 points for the victors. The Wolves smashed the Terrors, 56-1, as Hayes hit 20 points for the Wolves. The Bombers posted a 12-3 triumph over the Flying Hawks. Potter's six points paced the victors.

The Wolves and Hot Shots moved into the quarter-finals with their victories.

Platteville's Quint Gets Big Welcome

Platteville — The Platteville State college basketball team came home from the NAIA tournament Thursday night and was met on the highway by a 200-car caravan and welcomed at the gym by 1,000 students and townspeople.

Pioneer Coach John Barth said he was grateful and overwhelmed by the welcome, but said the honor belonged to his players. He saluted the team members as a credit to the "school, the community and the state."

The Pioneers, champions of the Wisconsin State College conference, were eliminated Wednesday in the second round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tournament at Kansas City when beaten, 74-63, by Youngstown (Ohio) college. It was the first NAIA tournament appearance for Platteville.

In his brief talk Barth said that Platteville was one of only three schools entered in the 32-team tournament that did not offer basketball scholarships. Barth has directed the Pioneers to 5 titles in 11 years.

Kuenn Is Happy in Center Field, Looks Forward to Big Year

Lakeland, Fla. — Milwaukee's Harvey Kuenn, once a diamond star at the University of Wisconsin, says his bad baseball is behind him and he plans to regain top hitting form.

Referring to his poor showing in 1957 with the Detroit Tigers, Kuenn said, "I got down in the dumps and couldn't get out. Every time I picked up a paper I read what a terrible shortstop I was. I never thought I was the greatest shortstop in the world, but I don't think I was as bad as they made me out to be."

Kuenn is the Tigers' new center fielder. As his fielding fell off in 1957, so did his batting. His average dropped 55 points to .277 and he drove in half as many runs as the year before.

"But it's all behind me now, and that's where it's going to stay," Kuenn said.

"I don't ever want to go back to the infield," he added. "Maybe this sounds funny, but I really feel more relaxed in center field. I'm going to do a good job out there, and my batting average will be back up where it's supposed to be."

Red Sox Win, 1-0

'Collect' Weeping Willow Tree, 5th Exhibition Loss Get Stengel's Goat

dropped a 1-0 verdict to the Boston Red Sox for their fifth loss and third whitewashing in six exhibition starts.

After the game, Stengel alerted regulars Hank Bauer, Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald, "Be ready to work by the weekend," he told the tender-armed trio. "We gotta win a ball game pretty soon."

Bill From Tree Nursery

In commenting on the $45 bill he received from a tree nursery in Wisconsin for "one weeping willow delivered at Glendale, Calif. (Stengel's home)," Casey said, "The guy who pulled the joke is going to find it expensive, because the willow goes right back unless the New York club wants to pay for it."

The Yankees managed only six hits off Frank Sullivan, George Susce and Al Schroll. Billy Consolo got the winning hit for Boston, a long single to left center after Sammy White's double in the third inning.

The San Francisco Giants clobbered the Chicago Cubs, 13-2, behind the slugging of Daryl Spencer, who had two home runs and a pair of singles.

Roy McMillan hit a 3-run homer and led Cincinnati to a 7-3 triumph over Pittsburgh; rookie Bob Shaw pitched six sparkling innings as Detroit beat Kansas City, 8-6; Minnie Minoso's third-inning double drove in the only runs as Cleveland blanked Baltimore, 2-0; Washington clubbed Jack Sanford for eight runs in whipping Philadelphia, 9-1; and Gene Green's single in the fourteenth enabled St. Louis to nip the Chicago White Sox, 3-2.

Coe Falls in NAIA Meet

Texas Southern Gains Semi-Finals With 98-78 Win

Kansas City — Coach Ed Adams of Texas Southern university says his Tigers have a 50-50 chance of beating Tennessee State of Nashville, the defending champion, in their semifinal game of the National Intercollegiate (NAIA) basketball tournament tonight.

Tennessee State advanced to the semifinals with a comparatively easy 81-62 victory over East Texas State of Commerce. Texas Southern beat Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 98-78.

Upper Bracket

In the upper bracket, top seeded Western Illinois of Macomb (26-0) will meet the tournament's surprise team, Georgetown, Ky. college.

Western Illinois came from behind in the closing minutes again to beat Youngstown (Ohio) university, 70-67, in the quarterfinals. It was the third straight night the Illinois team had to rally in the closing minutes.

For the second straight night Georgetown scored a real upset. They took fifth seeded West Virginia Wesleyan, 83-74. A night earlier they beat fourth seeded Pacific Lutheran, 92-91, in the only overtime thus far in the week-long marathon of small college basketball.

Evansville, Ind. — They should call St. Michael college the Iron Knights instead of the Purple Knights.

The men's school of Winooki Park, Vt., with an enrollment of 680, is represented by one of the best ball-rustling hot-shooting basketball teams seen for years in this hotbed of the sport.

The Purple Knights have not yet substituted in rolling through the quarter-finals and semi-finals of the NCAA college basketball tournament.

In the iron man act, the five regulars hit 52.3 per cent of their field goals in knocking Grambling of Louisiana, 84-76, and then registered 44.3 per cent in downing host Evansville, 78-70, Thursday night.

They move into tonight's championship game against South Dakota. The Coyotes made the semi-finals a complete round of upsets by stretching their winning streak to 19 and surprising defending champion Wheaton of Illinois, 64-60.

Wheaton led only once, by one point, in absorbing its first loss in 23 games and only its second in 50 starts over the last two years.

SMU Cage Captain Signs Bonus Pact With Braves' Farm

Dallas — Rich Heerscher, captain of the 1957-8 Southern Methodist basketball team that tied for the Southwest conference championship, leaped into professional baseball Thursday.

Heerscher signed a bonus contract with Wichita, Kan., Class AAA farm team of the Milwaukee Braves.

Although financial arrangements were not announced, it is believed that Heerscher, a 6-3, 185-pound infielder, is scheduled to report for training at the Wichita camp. Bradenton, Fla. Saturday.

Keely Quits as Braves Coach

Cites Poor Health In Letter to John Quinn

Bradenton, Fla. — Bob Keely, only survivor of the Milwaukee Braves' big coaching shakeup last year after they won the world's championship, resigned Thursday because of his health.

The 41-year-old bullpen coach, a veteran of 12 years with the Braves under several managers, tendered his resignation in a letter from his St. Louis home to General Manager John Quinn.

In it, Keely said, "Due to the fact that my health is not what it was and that I am not capable of doing the job I formerly did for you I see no reason why I should continue."

Quinn, Manager Fred Haney, and President Joe Cairnes were to decide whether to find a replacement for Keely or leave the post vacant. Haney's aides now are Whitlow Wyatt, Billy Herman and John Fitzpatrick.

Keely, whose identical twin brother Dick is a scout for the Braves, served under Charlie Grimm, Tommy Holmes and Billy Southworth, during his career with the club.

Toppazzini Hurt; Bruins' Playoff Stock Tumbles

Boston — Boston's playoff stock has tumbled a little with the loss of Jerry Toppazzini while Montreal has retained the services of goalie Jacques Plante by the narrowest of margins.

Both players were injured Thursday night as the Bruins defeated the Canadiens, 7-3, in the only National Hockey league action and edged ahead of Detroit into third place.

The Bruins are a cinch to make the Stanley cup playoffs, but their chances once they reach the post-season competition have fallen off.

Winger Toppazzini, hustling penalty killer and 24-goal scorer for the team, will not play again this year because of an injury to his right eye in the first period. Plante, who suffered a head injury, is expected to be ready for action this weekend.

Far and away the best represented community, per capita, in this weekend's Neenah Sectional Basketball tournament will be Hortonville.

Hortonville, whose last listed population is 1,081 purchased 531 tournament tickets when the ducats went on sale at the village's high school Tuesday morning.

"And," says Hortonville High Principal George Akin, "we could have sold many more if we'd have had them."

When you include the Hortonville people who purchased tournament tickets elsewhere and those who are sure to be first in line for any remaining tickets at the Neenah fieldhouse tonight, it is certain that well over half the population of the central Outagamie county village will attend the tourney.

The 531 tickets which Akin received from Neenah were all promised before they even arrived. "And, for two days we've done nothing but turn down ticket requests," the principal said Thursday.

Over 220 students out of a high school student body of about 300 will be making the trek to Neenah.

The demand for tickets elsewhere was heavy too. The two Appleton outlets, Berggren's and Pond's Sport shops, both sold out of their allotments—by reservation—long before the pasteboards themselves arrived.

There were two lengthy lines—one for "Neenah" buyers and one for "out of town" people—at Neenah High school when ducats went on sale there.

Two former Hortonville high athletic greats who are certain to be on hand tonight are Larry Magadan and Larry Huebner, both members of the great 1956-7 club which lost to Wausau in the first game of the Stevens Point sectional.

Huebner, a freshman at the University of Wisconsin made it home for both the Hortonville sub-district and Denmark district meets to cheer his former teammates on. Larry, whose principal sports fame has been in baseball, is a member of the UW's freshman squad in that sport.

A fine pitcher who represented New London in the Milwaukee Braves' Silver Sluggers game in Milwaukee last summer, Huebner may be used as a third baseman in college. His coaches like the way he handles a bat.

The Braves are still interested in Huebner, who plans to major in science and physical education.

Magadan, a star forecourter on last season's Polar Bear ball club, just finished a 6-month service stint. Now married, he is residing in the area.

Over 300 tickets to tonight's Weyauwega-Shawano game at Wisconsin Rapids were sold in Wega (population 1,207) by Wednesday noon.

And, Coach Carlton Goodrich thinks that some of the Wega citizenry will motor to Rapids and pick up their tickets at the door tonight.

"The great interest we've had in this season's ball club has done a lot to help us get closer to getting a new gym," Goodrich asserts. The Weyauwega gym seats only about 200 people. That doesn't leave much room for parents and townspeople after Weyauwega and visiting students are taken care of.

You may have noticed the Oshkosh High school basketball team using a yellow rubber ball during warmup drills at last weekend's regional basketball tournament.

The players like the ball better than their standard ones and seem to shoot better with it, according to Coach Ron Nord. The Indians plan to purchase several yellow-colored leather balls for next season.

For a month before the Midwest conference swimming meet, which was held in Lawrence's Alexander gym pool two weeks ago, Lawrence's Dick Bjornson and Mike Lepawsky worked out in the tank before classes in the morning and then again in the afternoon. In light of the distance between the Viking campus and the gym, that's real perseverance—and it paid off.

Lepawsky set a new conference record in winning the 200-yard breast stroke. And, Bjornson cracked Viking varsity and pool standards in winning the 200 yard back stroke.

Foresees Close Race Hutchinson Says Cardinals Have Corrected 2 Glaring Weaknesses

BY FRED HUTCHINSON
 St. Louis Manager

Bradenton, Fla. — I look for the same type of race in the National League this year as we had in 1957 but, naturally, I hope it doesn't end the same way.

No matter which club wins, it will know it's been in a race. It figures to be very close and the club that can hang in there will have a good shot.

Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Cincinnati and Philadelphia, as well as the St. Louis Cardinals, have pretty good balance but I think all of us can stand some help.

'We'll Be Stronger'
 As for the other three, they will be in a position to act as spoilers. What I'm trying to emphasize is that no team is strong enough to make a runaway race of it and that goes for the Braves, too.

I think our team will be stronger for several reasons. We had two glaring weaknesses last year. We were weak offensively in center field and we failed to get consistent performances from our starting pitchers.

I think both of these faults will be corrected this year. Ken Boyer, who switched from third base to center field last season, in all probability, will be our center fielder. I'm sure he will be a good one.

Our pitching, as a whole is young and should be improved. Youngsters like the McDaniel brothers (Von and Lindy) Larry Jackson, and even "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, are bound to be better. I know one thing, Mizell won't get off to such a terrible start as he did in 1957. The big lefthander didn't win a game until the middle of June, but he was our top pitcher the last six weeks of the season. He's probably the key for us.

I expect to get plenty of pitching from Sam Jones, Herm Wehmeier, Billy Muffett and Lloyd Merritt. This Von Mc-

Daniel astonished me. He's the most mature 18-year-old kid I've ever seen. He's got a deceptive easy-does-it delivery that makes him faster than he seems.

Another thing that should help our club is the added experience of such youngsters like Don Blasingame, Hal Smith, Eddie Kasko and others—but those in particular. The trade we made with Cincinnati will help our bench. Joy Taylor is a good hitter and Curtis Flood is regarded as a fine respect.

Musial at 1st
 The infield, of course, will be Stan Musial at first, Blasingame at second, Alvin Dark at short and Kasko at third. Del Ennis will be back in left, Wally Moon will be in right with Boyer in center. Smith and Hobie Landrith will share the catching.

"I'm planning to work Musial down from the 150-odd game schedule he's been averaging ever since he came up to the big leagues 17 years ago. Given a rest from time to time, I believe Stan can have another year like 1957 and, maybe win the batting championship again.

John Byrnes Visibly Rising In Hierarchy of Washington

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Washington — Rep. John W. Byrnes of Green Bay, recently chosen chairman of the Wisconsin Republican delegation to the house of representatives, is visibly rising in the hierarchy of official Washington.

Byrnes

As a member of the house ways and means committee he sits with what has been called the most powerful standing committee of congress and is daily involved in decisions affecting the basic economic concerns of the country. Moreover, after 14 years of service he is becoming one of the senior members of that potent group. He is now seventh in point of service on the Republican minority side, and there are good prospects for moving up three or four seats at the committee table in the immediate future.

Byrnes has been repeatedly invited by friends and leading Republican party organization men in his home state to leave his congressional seat to bid for the Republican nomination for United States senator this year. Many political leaders would be pleased and flattered by such tenders of support for an ostensible promotion in political life. The congressman is not unappreciative. But he has consistently and firmly replied that he does not intend to run for senator and that he is perfectly content with his seat in the second chamber of the United States congress. Unspoken, but perhaps implied, is the idea that he prefers being a congressman of some rank and influence to trading for a junior senator's seat without corresponding place and opportunity for action.

Rising in Party

Byrnes is rising in position as a spokesman for the Republican party as well as in the work of the potent revenues committee of the government. Besides being the elected head of Wisconsin Republicans in his chamber, he is a member of the Republican committee on committees, which makes the assignments of Republican committees to committee work, a considerable power in a powerful-conscious capital city. Some of Byrnes' friends are predicting that given his comparatively youthful age, at 44, and his demonstrated capacity for holding political support in his Fox Valley district, the Wisconsin congressman may well look forward to front-line leadership position and rank in his house. The congressman is not sanguine about the fiscal outlook for the country.

At a time when other politicians in both parties are talking eagerly about tax reductions in a campaign year, Byrnes bluntly points to the need to solve in the congress for continued high spending, additional government debt and deficits.

Any tax reduction without a corresponding cut in governmental expenditures means further deficit financing and increased government interest costs, he says worriedly. The country now is spending $7.8 billions a year merely to carry the national debt — which compares with 20 years ago when the entire national budget amounted to $6.8 billions. "The resulting inflation from a policy of deficit financing will more than offset any tax savings to the people resulting from the tax reduction. The onus difference is that the burden is shifted as a result of inflation, to those least able to bear the burden — those on fixed income such as the retired, the widow etc.," he explains seriously.

Afraid of Inflation

"I am more afraid of inflation and its evils than I am of high taxes. Yet, political considerations seem to favor inflation. The Democrats seem to have profited by it and they believe they have found in it a sure-fire means of winning elections," he added.

Byrnes, like most congressmen of his political viewpoint, gets hopeful letters from citizens inquiring about the prospects for tax relief.

To them go detailed, serious, but characteristically realistic replies. Tax relief can best come through expenditure reduction. Expenditures cannot be reduced by easy gimmicks. They will be cut only when the congress makes a frontal attack on the expenditures.

He goes on: "It is just too easy for the federal government to borrow money and operate through deficit financing. If congress votes an additional expenditure, that expenditure will be made and paid for. It will either be paid out of current revenues, or by issuing bonds."

There is also a moral issue involved, as he sees it.

"There is an inherent dishonesty in burdening our children with the cost of some government program designed for our present enjoyment. I feel just as much responsibility toward my children in the field of governmental action as I do with respect to their home care and training."

"What bothers me more than anything—Russia, Sputniks, etc. included—is the apparent mania of congress to authorize expenditures to win favor and power and defer the cost to a future time so as not to generate disfavor with today's voters."

Rep. Byrnes says he has been in Washington too long to want

AHS Debaters Begin Work on Mock Tourney

28 Underclassmen Compete for Places On A and B Squads

Potential debaters at Appleton High school have been working on a mock tournament before A and B debate squads are chosen. Harvey Reinholz, debate coach, has arranged practice debates between sophomores and juniors. Twenty-eight underclassmen are competing in groups of two. The first rounds of debates have already been run off and students now are in the second round.

Debate question used for the tournament is the regular one to make predictions on what congress will do. "Often it is simpler and more accurate to flip a coin."

Gives Own Views

But here is his own prescription for the nation's fiscal needs:

First, federal spending should be drastically reduced.

Second, the debt and taxes should be reduced.

Third, if spending is to continue at a high rate, taxes must continue at a high rate.

Fourth, only in extreme emergencies should we consider burdening future generations with additional public debt."

for the 1957-58 season. "Resolved: That direct United States economic aid to individual foreign countries should be limited to technical assistance and disaster relief." Debaters used several weeks before the first round of debates to gather material, to organize it and prepare their talks.

Those paired for affirmative teams are Jean Tornow and Sandy McKenny, Connie Abrahamson and Carol Moen, Lee Steinberg and Dick Vyse, Tom Baurain and Henry Kreiner, Jon Keckonen and Dave Griffiths, Lois Dennik and Janice Knelp and Jan Luebke and Tom Liethen. Negative teams consist of Fay Royan and Joe Foley, Dick Binsfeld and Alex Bloedorn, Shelly Cohen and Georgena Granberg, Barbara Abel and Barbara Pfefferle, Linda DeNoyer and John Bulbolz, Pete Peckham and Dick Natrop; and Barbara Thellman and Nancy Rowland.

"A" squad members for this year have worked with students and have judged debates. Those

POST-CRESCENT News of the TWIN CITIES Menasha - Neenah

Dedication of New Tullar School Wing To Mark Centennial

Open House at $80,000 Addition, Program Scheduled for March 23

Neenah — Tullar school will mark a century of educational progress along with the dedication and open house of its new $80,000 addition on Sunday, March 23. The town of Neenah school is located on the west edge of the city of Neenah.

A special invitation has been sent by the school board to all former students and teachers of the school as well as others interested. In addition to the open house, a program will be held in the afternoon.

With completion during the past week of the new addition, which includes additional classrooms as well as an all-purpose room for recreation and assemblies, the total value of Tullar school has now reached $145,000.

The first construction of the present school, a frame structure, was built at a cost of $15,000 and served the district for many years. Additional residents and more pupils made the first addition necessary and a structure was completed several years ago at a cost of $50,000. Still further growth of the area made necessary the second addition just completed.

Research by Board Considerable research by the present 5-member school board had developed a fairly complete history of the district. On the present school board are Harlan Hirschy, director; Mrs. Leslie Patton, clerk; Howard Evans, treasurer; John Arnold and Dale Winkler. In addition to the original district, the Valley Brook school district have been added in recent years.

Formal organization of the district started on Dec. 18, 1858 according to ancient records of the district, with a vote to appropriate $25 for a building lot and "not over $300" for a 24 by 34 foot structure, complete with seats and desks for 40 students.

This price may have been a little high for the times back then because for the next five years school was held in a house owned by W. L. Murray

The Wisconsin noxious weed law includes on this list Canada thistle, leafy spurge, and field bindweed. Any other weeds may be declared noxious by the governing body of the municipality or the county board within its respective boundaries.

Tom Webster, Winnebago county ASC office manager, reported that farmers participating in the soil bank program

Central Paper Marks 40th Year in Operation

Three Menasha Businessmen Started Firm In 1918 by Making Adding Machine Rolls

Menasha — Central Paper company which was started in 1918 by three Menasha businessmen as a small roll paper products company with one slitting and rewinding machine, this year is marking its 40th year in the paper business.

The company was formed with George Banta, president, George Banta, Jr., vice president, and Richard E. Thickens, secretary-treasurer. Known as the Geo. Banta Paper company, it was located in the plant building of the Geo. Banta Publishing company, in Menasha. For the first year its only product was adding machine rolls, but during the summer of 1919 a gumming machine was added which launched the neophyte company into the gummed tape field.

Larger Quarters
About this time, an arrangement was made with a Neenah paper broker, W. K. Gerbrick, to take over management of the company. Gerbrick's joining the firm coincided with a move to larger quarters on the outskirts of Menasha.

The operation continued on the new site for only a year, when its present location was purchased and the name changed to Central Paper company. As the plant was expanded, Central continued to invest in the newest high-speed machinery. Sales of its products flourished by adhering to a policy of selling exclusively through wholesale paper distributors, known in the industry as paper merchants. This policy is still followed today.

Upon George Banta's death in 1953, George Banta, Jr., became president, Thickens, vice president, and Gerbrick secretary-treasurer and general manager. Thompson Joins Firm
In the meantime, 1929, a young man named Stuart Thompson had joined the firm after spending some time at a pulp mill in Canada and serving with the old Menasha Printing and Carton company (now Marathon Division of American Can).

Then, in 1939, Gerbrick and Thompson acquired the shares of those stockholders no longer actively participating in the business. The new officers were Gerbrick, president, Mrs. W. K. Gerbrick, vice president, and Thompson, secretary-treasurer. Today Gerbrick spends most of the winter in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and has turned over who was paid a rental of $5 per year. In March of 1863 the board voted a tax appropriation of which $25 was to buy the house and $25 was for repairs.

It has been impossible to determine the exact location of the Murray house because a century ago the Tullar district included not only the towns of Neenah and Menasha but the cities of Neenah and Menasha and at least part of the town of Vinland as well.

2-Month Term
The name of Tullar, however, comes from the name of pioneer residents who owned land in the near proximity of the present school.

The school term was to be for two months, March and April, the board decreed and M. J. Walker was given $24 to teach the term.

Increasing population in the cities and towns of Neenah and Menasha have seen Tullar school keep in step with the times, until the present school has facilities for the first through eighth grades, full-time instructors and an enrollment of 115 children who represent 85 families in the district.

The Tullar school board plans a meeting early next week to complete the plans for the formal open house and centennial observance.

Stumble-Stomp an Exciting Obstacle Game for Back Yard

BY CAPPY DICK

Stumble Stomp is an exciting game to play in your back yard. It requires players to hop on one foot over a row of obstacles.

To lay out the game court in a jiffy all you need is a piece of board, a couple of wood or cardboard boxes and some loose dirt with which to build three long, low mounds. The layout is shown in Figure 1. The players must hop over these obstacles, one at a time, on one foot.

Build series of obstacles.

The first obstacle is a length of wood about eight inches high, resting edge-up against two supporting stakes hammered into the ground. The next obstacle, four feet from the board, is a box six or eight inches high, open-side-up on the ground. The next three obstacles, the first of them one foot from the box, are three ridges of dirt about one foot apart. The next obstacle, one foot ahead of the third mound of dirt, is another box similar to the first, but bottom-side-up. The final obstacle is a four-foot square scratched with a stick. It should be three feet in front of the box.

One at a time, the players hop on one foot (Figure 2) over each barrier without stumbling, falling or putting the other foot to the ground until they have hopped out of the square which is the last obstacle. First they hop over the plank; next, into the box and out of it; then over each of the three mounds of dirt, one mound at a time; next, over the second box and finally into and out of the square.

Lesson in English

Words often misused: Do not say, "I hunted every place for the book." It is better to say, "I hunted EVERYWHERE."

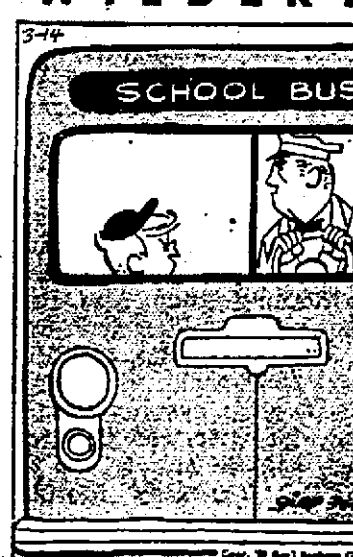

Often mispronounced: Femme fatale. Pronounce fan-fa-tal, all "a's" as in "am," accent final syllable.

Often misspelled: Negligible; observe the two "i's."

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: intrusion; the act of thrusting in without invitation. "Even in his own home he was not safe from intrusion."

Valley Conference's 4 Top Scorers To See Action in Neenah Sectional

Neenah — The Fox River Valley conference's four leading scorers will be in action tonight in the Neenah sectional tournament as a quartet of clubs with potent offenses start on the trip which will end with one earning a berth in the state finals.

Tonight's games match Hortonville against Appleton at 7 o'clock and Manitowoc against Green Bay at 8:30.

As for individual scoring, By Prentice of East finished first in the Valley loop's race with 310 points in 14 games for an average of 22-plus per start. Manitowoc's Bill Nelson was second with 297, Jack Ulwelling of Appleton placed third with 286 and Tom Hughbanks of East was fourth with 283.

Including non-league games, Hughbanks scored 446 points for an average of 21.2 per outing and Prentice had 415 for 20.7. Nelson has scored 387 points for a 19.4 average. Manitowoc has three more boys averaging in the double figures but the Bays' show a big drop. Bob Wittig is third with 7.6.

Ulwelling has scored better than 100 points more than the second best Appleton scorer in conference play. He has 286 while Howie Hamann is second with 140.

Hortonville Stars

Hortonville also boasts some high scorers. Dennis Sommers and Jim Steffen both have exceeded 30 points this season. Steffen has hit in the double figures 18 of 21 times and Sommers in all but one game. Joe Steffen and Bob Broehm both have scored 10 or more points in over half of the games.

Manitowoc set a conference mark with its 1,007 points, the first time a league team exceeded the 1,000 total. Bob Scherer set a school record of 39 points against Fond du Lac and Nelson only needs 20 to tie the season record, currently held by Greg Ripp. Ripp made his total in 19 games while Nelson will have 21.

Appleton is the first club making its second trip to the Neenah sectional in the three years it has been held here. It copied honors in 1956.

Unusual Experiences

East Green Bay has had some unusual sectional experience in the Twin Cities, both times at Menasha. In 1952, Shawano used a stall against it to keep the ball away from the Red Devils' Terry Rand and the Indians posted a 24-22 win.

Two New Varieties Of Morning Glory, Zinnia Introduced

Rich Colors Expected to Wipe Out Planning Problems, Gardeners Say

Good news for flower lovers this spring is the introduction of two new varieties. They are the pink lady zinnia, a distinctly new color in the popular giant dahlia flowered family of zinnias, and the sunrise serenade morning glory, an entirely different strain of this flower.

Available for the first time this year, the pink lady zinnia is the answer to many home garden planning problems. The new variety is a real bi-color beauty, with a center of strong, warm pink that softens as the petals expand. In the outer third of the bloom the more delicate pink blends into a buff color with delightful shrimp undertones. There is nothing like it in giant zinnias at present. The large flowers and sturdy plants, growing to a height of 2 1/2 feet, are of the same form and habit as other popular varieties of the dahlia flowered strain. They should be planted about 1 inch deep, packing the earth firmly after sowing. Ground should be kept moist until seedlings are established, and then watered thoroughly when dry. A layer of grass cuttings will protect seedlings in extremely hot weather. They should germinate in one to two weeks, depending on soil and weather, and bloom from mid-season till late. Thin plants to ten inches for a mass display, or to eighteen inches for extra large blossoms.

Different Strain
Sunrise serenade, a different strain of morning glory, features a fully double flower that gives an attractive ruffled effect.

This is the first double morning glory in complete range of colors. Prior to this time the only double morning glory was rose in color. Blossoms measure 1 1/2 to 2 inches across, in colors of white, pink, rose, lavender, scarlet, and purple. The plants are an excellent ground cover or climber, and the heart-shaped leaves of medium green will cover bare areas or banks as well as walls or fences as high as six feet.

Sunrise serenade is easy to grow. Ordinary soil is preferred, since rich soil often causes lush plant growth at the expense of the number of flowers. Notching the seeds with a knife and soaking them in warm water for a few hours before planting will hasten germination.

Cost of World War II Heavy, Japanese Learn

Tokyo — Deputy Cabinet Secretary Katsuo Tanaka told the upper house budget committee Wednesday that World War II cost Japan 1,700,000 military casualties and 168,000 civilians working for the Japanese armed forces.

Loss of territory — including Formosa and Korea — amounted to about 48 per cent of the Japanese empire, he said, and the economic loss came to 23.3 per cent of Japan's prewar wealth.

Liquid Rubber in the Form of Air curing neoprene is a new product handy for many home repair jobs. Here is how to patch a hole in a metal drain pipe: Clean surrounding surface with sandpaper or fine steel wool, left photo. All rust, oil, wax or grease should be removed. A coat of liquid neoprene then is applied around the hole, completely rimming the defect, second from left. Brush it on like paint. Cut a patch of canvas and press it firmly into the tack rubber coating, third from left. The patch will bond it to the hard surface beneath. Wait at least one hour before applying a second coat, right. This will insure a tough film that will resist water, rust and climatic changes.

Shrubs Old When They are Overgrown

How old is an old shrub or shrub evergreen?

It is too old when it has outgrown its place in the general landscape, and should be removed. In the foundation planting it usually has a useful life span of less than 20 years . . . and this only with good maintenance. With little or no maintenance, cross off a number of years from the 20.

Tree experts define shrub usefulness as the period in which the plant can be maintained attractively in scale with the area and adjacent structures, such as house and garage. In effect, outdoors decor is as perishable as indoor decorations.

Despite popular opinion, the woody shrub or evergreen does not last indefinitely. And while rejuvenating the overgrown planting is possible in theory it is most difficult to accomplish. Best bet to help the landscaping is to replace outmoded shrubbery with more youthful and decorative stock.

To get the most mileage out of existing decorative plantings, they must be kept within bounds by strategic pruning. Spring flowering species should

Jobless Pay Should be Hiked, Kennedy Says

Senator Sees Need to Keep Up With Current High Wage and Price Levels

By JOHN F. KENNEDY
U. S. Senator from Massachusetts

Washington — Twenty-three years ago, in the wake of the great depression, the nation took a major step forward in the enactment of the social security system. An important element of the new program was the institution of the federal-state system of unemployment insurance under which jobless workers received weekly benefits while actively seeking employment.

Without question, unemployment insurance has served not only as a humanitarian social program — but also as one of our most important economic stabilizers. Sensitive to fluctuations in the economy, it automatically pours millions back into the economy to replace lost wages when a downturn occurs.

However, over the years, the states have lagged in keeping the program up with current wage and price levels. Congress has not acted at all. As a result, the benefits paid to workers out of a job today are geared to price and wage levels prevalent in the 1930's.

Not 50 per cent. In very few states do most unemployment insurance recipients receive as much as 50 per cent of their previous weekly wages. In some cases the percentage is as low as 30 per cent. In dollar terms, average unemployment benefits in the various states during November, 1957, ranged from a low of $20 a week to a high of about $35 — with most states paying an average of about $27.

It takes no expert in family budgeting to realize that present state unemployment benefits fall miserably in providing the wherewithal to maintain even a modest standard of living at today's prices. Aside from the serious impact on the welfare of families and individuals, the overall effect on our complex and interdependent economy is even more serious. The butcher, baker, insurance company, doctor, mortgage holder — all of these and many more depend for their economic health on the maintenance of consumer income.

8. Use a board under both legs of a ladder on soft ground.

9. Don't get up on a ladder in a high wind, heavy rain or snow. If necessary in emergency, have an assistant there to hold the ladder.

Use Head as Well as Hands When on Ladder

Are you going to repair those loose and leaky gutters, patch the roof, or put up a TV antenna? If you have any "second-story job" in mind, you'll be getting up on a ladder. So watch your step.

More accidents happen on ladders, say the statisticians, than — well, they have a lot of comparisons including the Suez Canal, but for the sake of your own skin and bones it's worthwhile to learn how to stay on a safe ladder.

It is not a circus stunt. All you have to do is to use your head as well as your hands and feet when working on a ladder.

Two men in the ladder business recently put their heads together over the number of sad accidents on ladders and came up with some sound advice.

Ladder Rules
1. Never stand on the top step of any ladder.
2. Don't prop up one ladder leg on uneven ground. Use an extension leg.
3. Always lock a door and

Thousands of Disabling Injuries result from falls from ladders every year. Here are some sensible precautions: Never use a brick to prop a ladder on uneven footing. Use an adjustable leg as in left photo. When setting a ladder on soft ground, put a strong board under both legs, center photo. If you must use both hands for work, brace yourself by hooking a leg over a rung, right photo.

Resin Coating Declared Best For Appliances

Helps Equipment Retain Its Gloss For Many Years

Washington, D. C. — What does the modern housewife consider an ideal finish for such home appliances as ranges, washing machines and refrigerators?

"First of all," she would say, "it must be easy to clean and should retain its gloss for the lifetime of the appliance. It should be resistant to food acids, hot grease, caustic or abrasive cleaners and alkalies." She might also add that such finish must be flexible and tough enough to take a lot of punishment without chipping.

Not many years ago, such a blanket requirement for a finish would have been considered a challenge practically impossible to meet. The assignment of providing a finish with good chemical and heat resistance was in opposition to that of providing resistance to chipping. Coatings which fulfilled the former requirement were brittle and unrepairable.

Synthetic Resins
Not until the chemists of the paint, varnish and lacquer industry developed the modern synthetic resins did the appliance manufacturers'—and the housewife's—dream come true. The necessity for compromise ing desirable features has been reduced to such a degree that it is hardly a factor in many cases.

These resins, used as a raw material in the manufacture of these specific chemical coatings, combine qualities which cannot be obtained by any other types of finishes. Among these qualities are excellent gloss retention, chemical resistance, flexibility, corrosion inhibition, adhesion, sheer toughness—and colorful beauty.

The chemical coatings industry continually engages in research for such new and better products as modern America may demand. The modern synthetic resin is just one example of many revolutionary advances made in this field—advances which protect your investment in countless articles of everyday use.

Tax Reduction Might Create Federal Deficit

More People Would Be Made Jobless by
Runaway Inflation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—There's an old saying that "the remedy could be worse than the disease," and that's what might happen if all or even some of the various anti-recession measures being proposed in congress were put into effect.

Sen. Harry Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia, chairman of the Senate finance committee, gives an inkling of what might occur when he says that if two pending bills, each providing $5 billion or more in tax reduction, are adopted, that might throw the federal treasury $10 to $15 billion into the red.

There are about 5,200,000 persons now out of work but, if America embarks on what could result in a runaway inflation, the eventual "bust" could bring about an unemployment many times that figure.

The Eisenhower administration is not allowing itself to be stampeded by pressure for tax reduction and, when it comes up with a plan, it will be one that takes into account the long-range as well as the short-range aspects.

Serious Situation

The government would surely face a serious situation from a fiscal point of view if, without waiting to get a clear picture of just what has been happening in the national economy, it interjected an unbalancing factor in the way of a sharp reduction in tax receipts.

The psychological effect, in other words, of a deficit of $10 to $15 billion might tend to bring such a pessimistic outlook for the long-range future as to discourage the very sentiment needed now for business recovery. The stock market would be one of the first institutions to reflect the coming of an inflationary spiral. For, if the 50-cent dollar of today were to be headed down toward a 25-cent value in the next few years, obviously prices of stocks would tend to rise commensurately. This would be an artificial upsurge that could in the end bring on a smash.

Need for Revision

There is need, of course, for tax revision, but it should be undertaken on a gradually changing rate basis and not just as a means of distributing purchasing power to individuals. It should include a method of stimulating the heavy-goods industries so that manufacturing corporations can begin to plan for new equipment and plants.

If it were merely a case of giving cash to the public generally, it would cost far less to aid certain distressed areas on a local basis. For most of the tax proposals would give a tax reduction to those who already have jobs and savings enough to continue a high velocity of purchasing. The unemployed, on the other hand, would not benefit by a tax reduction to individuals. Business itself would have to be encouraged somehow by corporate-tax reductions to create more employment.

Last year, when this correspondent was almost alone in defending the $71.8-billion budget of the president, there was a widespread pressure in congress for reducing the spending. It resulted in an artificial restraint on the flow of defense expenditures. The sudden cuts and the modification of the system of government financing of defense contracts by advance payments threw many a business into an embarrassing position. The manufacturers were forced to borrow at high rates to pay bills the government customarily paid while the work was in process.

Weakness Remedied

This weakness has now been remedied and the government is readjusting its method of handling defense contracts. It is speeding up the allocation of orders, too. Defense spending is now estimated by Secretary

Study Chances of Racine, Kenosha, Milwaukee Link

Racine — Representatives of Racine and Kenosha Tuesday discussed the possibilities of an industrial limited-access highway linking their communities to Milwaukee.

Backers of the highway feel it would stimulate industrial development in all three cities. A bill proposing such a road was introduced in the 1957 legislature but was held over for further study.

At Tuesday's meeting in the office of the Racine Chamber of Commerce, the discussion centered on selection of the best route. No decision was made.

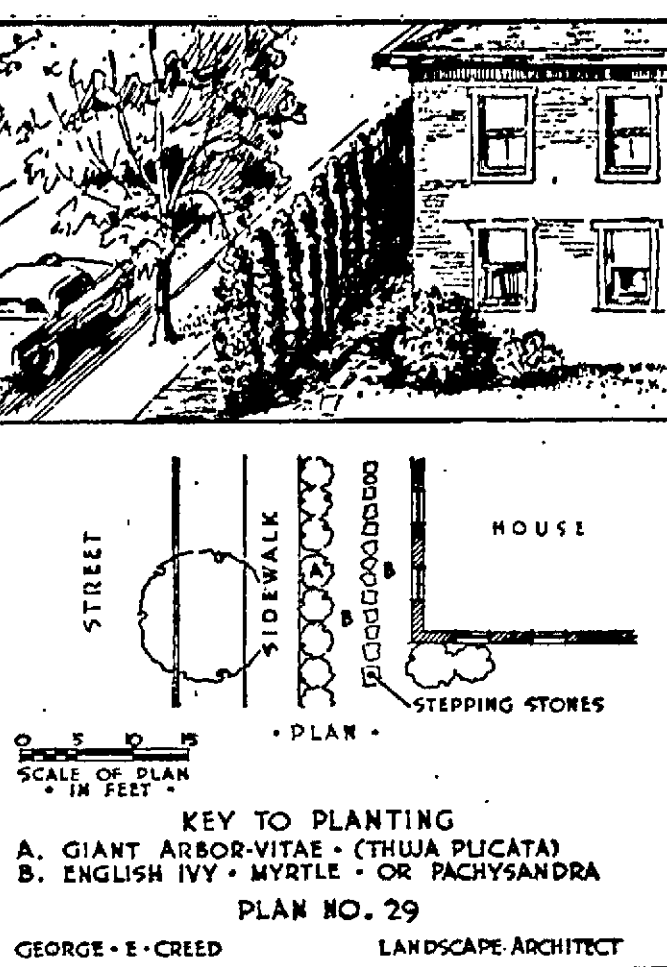

Those attending included Racine Mayor Jack Humble who in 1957 was named temporary chairman of a citizens' committee investigating the proposal. In all 13 persons were present, including Floyd Pfening, chairman of the Kenosha county board.

McElroy at $11.7 billion for the first six months of 1958, as compared with half that amount for the last six months of 1957.

There are signs, too, that retail sales have held fairly well throughout the country. The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, in its latest report, says the decline in employment is, basically due to inventory reductions and decreases in durable goods as well as defense hardware. These factors can be helped by the unspectacular steps already taken in the defense department and in purchases which were authorized for the government to make but were delayed during the "economy" wave of last year.

The present recession wasn't "planned," as some Democratic senators are saying, but it is in part the direct result of the drive made early last year by some of the same Democrats to curtail defense appropriations. A change came when the first Soviet "sputnik" was launched late in 1957. The biggest economists of last year in congress are among those who would spend extravagantly this year and also would deprive the treasury of billions of tax revenue. If politicians instead of economists are heeded, the "remedy" indeed may prove worse than the disease. (Copyright, 1958)

THE HANDY FAMILY

Here's the Answer

BY ANDREW C. LANG

Question: There is a slight sag in our dining room floor. I have been advised that something called a telescopic screw post will correct the condition. Can you tell me something about this?

Answer: The type of post you mention acts somewhat like a jack for an automobile. A base plate is secured to the basement floor, which I presume is concrete. Use expansion shields and lag screws or bolts to make this attachment. The post fits on this base and extends vertically to the underside of the sagging floor. There is a screw arrangement which raises the height of the post, thus lifting the floor. However, if you raise the post height too much or too quickly, you can cause serious damage to the floor structure. The proper way to do it is to raise the post a tiny bit until it fits snugly between the basement floor and the sagging point. Let it alone for one week, then use a level to determine whether the sag has disappeared. If not, raise the post another inch or so, then let it alone for another week. Keep doing this until the level shows that the floor is absolutely level. This gradual procedure is the only way to correct the sagging condition without starting new trouble.

Bedroom Chairs

Question: The backs of our bedroom chairs have intricate carved mouldings which are finished in a gold or gilt color. A piece of the moulding on one chair broke off some time ago. I meant to glue it back on, but never got around to it. Now I have lost the broken piece. Is it possible to replace this? The broken part is only about 3 inches long.

Answer: You may not be able to buy moulding to match the kind on the chair, but any place which deals in mill work can make it up for you. It may cost more than you think, because it will take almost as long to make up one piece of moulding to specifications as to make up 100 pieces. There is something else you might try—wood putty or one of the plastic wood materials. Place a strip of it where the moulding is broken and then shape it carefully to match the rest of the moulding by using your fingers and any small, pointed tool. This is actually a form of sculpture. If you don't get an exact match the first time, scrape off the putty before it gets too hard and start again. Once you have succeeded in getting a satisfactory result, allow the putty to harden. Then use a matching gold or bronze paint, which will further help to disguise the patch.

Unfinished Cabinet

Question: I recently bought an unfinished cabinet made of white pine. I want to stain it a reddish color, somewhat like certain kinds of mahogany I have seen. A friend of mine says he put a red stain on a white pine bookcase a few years ago and got a poor result, even though he followed the directions very carefully. What is your advice?

Answer: Occasionally, white pine will take a red stain fairly well, but more often than not the result will be unsatisfactory. Red stain seems to take very unevenly on white pine, producing contrasting colors on different parts of the wood. If you still plan to take a chance,

Plant 'Screen' Will Provide Traffic Shield

Hedge Will Muffle
Sounds of Cars if Highway is Close

Few people care to be hemmed in by solid planting, but there are instances in which a live wall can be a decided advantage.

One of these is that if a side of your house is close to a busy highway. Screen planting will not be the complete answer to the problem; nevertheless it will go a long way towards deadening the noise and veiling the glare of passing headlights. Sometimes houses are built so close to highways—or the reverse—that there remains little room for planting, and then even the choice of screening materials becomes difficult. In the example shown, a high wall or a high fence might be used, but both of these are expensive. A tall evergreen hedge is relatively inexpensive. It also has softer lines than a solid, artificial barrier and presents a welcome green color summer and winter.

Fast Growth

Because they are of comparatively fast growth and consequently less expensive than many other evergreens, arbor-vitae have been used too frequently, and mostly in the wrong places, during the last 25 years. The tall-growing types may be employed to good effect with some types of architecture, but their use in any foundation planting should be predicated on their effect at maturity. Planted out in the open, as specimens, or as a tall hedge such as illustrated, they have great merit.

The giant arbor-vitae, unlike many varieties of the American arbor-vitae, does not turn brown in winter—at least not in the colder climates. Though this arbor-vitae will grow taller than is desirable in a position such as that shown, it can be clipped and kept to any height desired.

On using a red stain, give the wood a coat of thin shellac first, which will help to minimize the chances of uneven coloring. But test this first on a part of the cabinet that does not show. Then if it comes out all right, you can go ahead with the entire cabinet.

Nelson Raps Lack of Attention to Small Business' Tax Problems

Palmyra — Gaylor Nelson, Democratic candidate for governor, charged Wednesday night that "neither Washington nor Madison has paid enough attention" to the tax problem faced by small business.

Speaking at a party meeting, Nelson, a state senator from Madison, said the tax load on small business often means the difference between survival and failure.

The state government must find ways of giving tax relief to small business, he asserted.

"If this country is going to have the expanding, dynamic economy it needs to keep its position of leadership in the world, it must have a strong and healthy small business element," Nelson said.

Studio Files Damage Suit Against Actor; Claims He Was Drunk

Los Angeles — A $150,700 damage suit has been brought against Actor Dana Andrews by a studio that claims he frequently was too intoxicated to work during the filming of a picture.

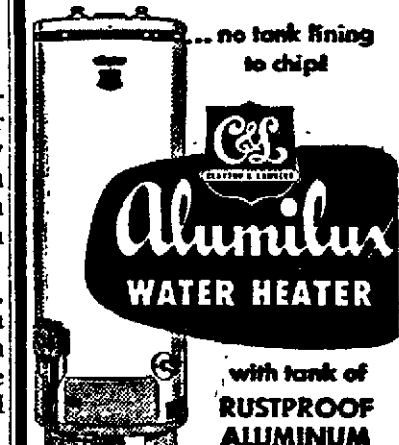

Advised of the action, the 47-year-old actor said last night: "I deny all the charges. It's ridiculous and childish. This is a conflict of personalities."

The suit was filed in superior court by Waverly Productions, incorporated, which claimed it had to interrupt the shooting of the picture at least 20 times at locations in Mexico because Andrews couldn't work. The company said he left Mexico before finishing his work. It asked to be freed from a contract under which it was to pay the actor $100,000 for 10 weeks of work.

Trend Lower On Exchange

Nearly All Groups Are Affected by Downward Drift. New York — The stock market's gains this week were cut a bit in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Key issues declined fractions to around a point for the most part. A few posted plus signs. The decline was general, affecting steels, motors, rails, chemicals, oils and most air-crafts.

Some profit taking was in order after the market's sustained rise of more than a week. Pre-weekend caution was apparent.

The news brought no relief to the picture of recession. Government reports forecast sizeable cutbacks in spending both by businessmen and consumers this year.

An extreme loss for its group was shown by Youngstown. Sheet which dropped about two points after taking two open hearth furnaces out of production.

Chrysler shaded its price a bit. Ford and General Motors eased. Sinclair, Goodrich and Goodyear also were off about a point.

Top Student Awards Announced by College During Convocation

Both organizations honor superior scholarship. Phi Beta Kappa in the liberal arts, and Phi Kappa Lambda in music.

Phi Beta Kappas are William Bast, Menomonee Falls; Victoria Chung, Panama City, Panama; Louis Falk, Milwaukee; Mimi Muuss, Sheboygan; Mrs. F. C. Stevens, the former Sharon Newell of Wausau whose Appleton residence is 2013 N. Richmond street; and Bert Walker, Roswell, N. M.

This is the second time in the Lawrence records that a student whose native language was not English was chosen to Phi Beta Kappa. In 1946, Carlos Rodriguez, a native of Bogota, Colombia, was chosen for his superior work in economics. Now his record has been duplicated by Victoria Chung, of the Panama Canal zone, who is of Chinese racial stock but considers Spanish her first language. Miss Chung has been a scholarship student at Lawrence, and is a history major. She was assigned to Lawrence by a school administrator in the Canal Zone.

College President Addresses Students, Stresses Humility in Quest for Knowledge

"The ultimate quest of scholarship is the discovery of some quietness at the center of your own being, an island within an inviolate world that you create out of what you know and hope to know; a world that will keep its own house in the face of sorrow and disappointment and all circumstance."

So spoke President Howard Foster Lowry, president of the College of Wooster in Ohio, who addressed the Lawrence college student body Thursday morning at its annual honors ceremony and that will be a help", Lowry remarked.

Greatness can be found in a classroom, the speaker counseled the student audience. "There is no subject in the curriculum that cannot give you grandeur and excitement, and at the same time a strange quiet feeling around the heart."

"In the long run, there is not such thing as an educated person, but only a potentially educated person which every day of his life tries to diminish a little more of the darkness around him," President Lowry concluded.
